Dear Mr Ing,

Ocean Island Phosphates - Royalty Action

Thank you for your letter T&M/948/NDI of the 4th February. Everything seems to be all set and I send you a copy of my letter to Mr Sands to that effect. I am taking it that the question of a room with single beds, lavatory and bath or shower attached, will occasion no difficulty, as neither of us is well at the moment and my stomach has unfortunately given out on me with the nervous strain. It was, I suppose, inevitable, but I shall have to go slow.

I imagine that there may be financial details to settle when we are in England but from the tenor of your letters I am quite sure that they will be considered in a sympathetic light, provided a good case is made out as to why the expenditure was unavoidable. I may say that I have nothing particular in mind; in fact, and as usual, I am merely crossing my bridges before I come to them.

On the assumption that we arrive in England on the 7th March I shall need to go to Moss Bros a.m. on the 8th to hire a suitable suit, or suits, before I freeze to death, and will then telephone your office. The doctor has advised us to get inoculated immediately on our arrival in London against the particular strain of flu which you favour at the moment; possibly someone in your office may know how this is done.

Yours sincerely,

Heem
H.E. Maude.
