Student AHEMS Experience

Melissa Holmes

My AHEMS journey began in a small town on the West Coast of South Australia. Being an avid supporter for the abolition of factory farming, I wanted to see for myself the feasibility and sustainability of free range pig farming. At the end of the hard, hot, dusty placement I was convinced of the way of the future (ironically to return to the past!).

My AHEMS continued from the West Coast to the Fleurieu Peninsula where I admit to now being a little captivated by alpacas! This placement provided the opportunity to halter train cria, assist with matings, and to observe a post mortem. Then on to the Yorke Peninsula to prepare some feisty yearlings for Magic Millions sales. A number of my placements have been in the Adelaide Hills including beef cattle where I was able to learn an enormous amount about Charolais and Simmentals, administer antibiotics, and assist the vet in removing a 'foetal monster' which had died inside a cow. My sheep placement was one of the most interactive and amongst many things I assisted the vet with blood sampling for Brucellosis testing and tag & weigh newborn Border Leicester x Merino lambs - there is nothing like newborn lambs! On a recent equine placement I was able to enjoy some sooky horses used for classical riding snuggle up to me in the paddocks - always a bit awkward when a massive horse thinks it's a Chihuahua!

Each and every placement has provided me with the opportunity to develop safe, practical handling skills and to learn more about the people behind the animals - their motivation, their drive, and to admire their determination. Their commitment is astounding and I have appreciated the knowledge they have unselfishly shared which undoubtedly contributes to my ongoing development. The diversity of supervisors at placements, whilst occasionally a little challenging at the time, only further supports & assists in developing our abilities to interact with a wide range of clients in the future.

There is one area as a result of AHEMS that has stirred something within me that I know will, at times, break my heart - shelter medicine. If I hadn't had the experience provided through AHEMS, I may not have further explored the passion I have for this area...I even found myself looking at specialist residency programs in the U.S. and then reality hit like a lightning bolt that I really should worry about finishing these two degrees first!

I consider a veterinary career to be of broader social implication than simply the treatment perpetrators as their dogs/cats may be their only companions who provide unconditional affection and to lose them too is emotionally unbearable.

It has been my observation both generally and during AHEMS that often people suffering from mental health issues prefer the company of animals and subsequently invest their entire time in the safe surrounds of their property/enterprise. Being aware of this on placement has reaffirmed for me the valuable role of animals in reducing dissociative experiences and building resilience for those with Acute Stress Disorder/Post Traumatic Stress Disorder and often compounded by depression. As future veterinarians, this experience is valuable for the interactions we will have with clients and, for those that are interested, having input into developing animal related programs to provide effective treatments.

I certainly feel privileged to have had the experiences and exposure that EMS has provided so far and to be surrounded by a committed group of students & staff. I wait with keen interest as I know that lurking amongst them is the future Australian Animal Rights Commissioner!

Grant amounts vary depending on need, and availability of funds. Please contact Student Care on 83135430 for further information.

Congratulations Roseworthy Campus City to Bay 2013 Team

15th September saw an early start for twenty-four staff and students representing the Roseworthy Campus who participated in this year's City to Bay Fun Run. Joining the crowd of 40,000; half ran and half walked the 12km stretch from the northern edge of Adelaide's CBD down King William Road and Anzac Highway to the beachside district of Glenelg. Beautiful weather saw individuals cross the line clocking fantastic times, including some under 60 minutes! With smiles on after a great effort and health and wellbeing at our core the team relaxed under our tent in Wigley Reserve with munchies and drinks.

A big thanks to the Roseworthy Residential College, AUU and International Student Centre for supporting the team!

Look out for registrations in 2014!!!

Enter this global ideas competition to win an exciting opportunity to explore the world on a National Geographic Expedition.

Shell Ideas360 www.shellideas360.com/energy #shellideas360

Shell Ideas360 is a global competition organised by Shell International for students to develop game-changing ideas for tackling Energy, Water and Food issues.

Even the simplest of ideas has the power to transform lives and positively impact society. At Shell, we believe human ingenuity holds the key to unlocking innovative thinking. This competition is a way of fostering innovation and, potentially, turning your idea into reality.

Why take part?

Shell Ideas360 invites you to become part of an international community of like-minded students and learn skills that will be invaluable for your studies and future career.

- The chance to win a 'once in a lifetime' National Geographic Expedition
- The best ideas will be considered for funding by the Shell GameChanger Programme
- If you reach the later stages of the competition, you'll work with Shell subject matter experts and mentors to develop and refine your idea
- Finalists will be flown to Rotterdam, the Netherlands, in May 2014 to present their final ideas and attend the Shell Eco-Marathon. You will also meet an exclusive group of business and thought leaders
