Acknowledgements

During my three-year stint of writing this PhD Dissertation there are several persons who provided assistance and encouragement. The journey has been long with a mixture of good and difficult periods. The continuous support of family, friends and colleagues have made this a meaningful journey, and I am grateful to them all. I would like to take the time to specifically thank some of those individuals.

Firstly, I would like to thank my Principal Supervisor Professor Richard Pomfret. Your guidance and support throughout this journey has been valuable, and I am greatly appreciative of your helpful comments and suggestions throughout the period of writing my dissertation. To my Co-Supervisors Professor Kym Anderson and Dr Nicholas Sim, your support, guidance and encouragement have been valuable. Dr Sim, I would like to thank you for sharing your knowledge and expertise in the field of econometrics, it has been truly beneficial to my research agenda. Professor Anderson, I would like to express gratitude for always lending a listening ear when I needed one, and for useful advice when I needed it.

Next, I would like to thank other colleagues who provided support and guidance. Dr Florian Ploeckl and Associate Professor Mandar Oak, I am greatly appreciative for your comments on my research, it has been beneficial. To other colleagues and friends, I thank you wholeheartedly for your support and encouragement throughout this long journey, and especially when the ‘going got tough.’

To my mom, dad and siblings thank you for your support throughout my journeys. To my family members at home in Saint Lucia, the United States and elsewhere, I am grateful for your support. To my fiancé, Michael, parents-in-law and other in-laws thank you for your encouragement and support. I am eternally grateful to you all. Finally, and most importantly, I would like to thank the Almighty God for seeing me through.
