ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1974

I. THE UNIVERSITY'S CENTENARY

1974 was the Centenary Year of the foundation of the University of Adelaide by Act of Parliament on 13 October 1874, and celebrations of this auspicious event took place throughout the year, though they were concentrated in the months of March and August.

The celebrations began in March with a Centenary Banquet at which H.R.H. Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, officially inaugurated the Centenary Year. On the following night the Duke was admitted to the degree of Doctor of Science at a Special University Congregation at the Festival Theatre, after which he delivered his Centenary Address. This was enthusiastically received, and copies of the printed version have been requested from all over Australia.

As part of the less formal programme, the Duke was shown over the campus and spent some time chatting with staff and students, and a number of departments prepared an exhibition showing historical documents, photographs, rare books and vintage equipment.

In the first two weeks of March, a special programme was arranged for Asian graduates. It was highlighted by a Seminar entitled "Asian-Australian Educational and Cultural Relations: Past, Present and Future", which was opened by the Premier, Mr. Don Dunstan. The Prime Minister, Mr. Gough Whitlam, gave the Opening Address. The papers of the proceedings are being presented in booklet form. A colourful and entertaining part of the programme was the Asian Cultural Night, when guests were treated to musical items, judo, Balinese dancing, a Malay wedding and a display of martial arts.

A second major series of events took place in August when the Centenary Assembly was held. On this occasion, greetings and gifts from 139 universities and institutions were presented to the University, and visitors from many parts of the world gathered in Adelaide. The Centenary Oration was delivered by Professor Lord Todd, Master of Christ's College, Cambridge.

The Assembly was followed the next day by a Symposium, and a special Commemoration Ceremony. The major address at the Symposium, delivered by Dr. Michael Young on the topic "Universities in a Rich and Poor World", received much praise. At the Centenary Commemoration Ceremony in the evening, eight Centenary Visiting Professors were admitted to degrees ad eundem gradum. A Centenary Concert was held on the following evening, and featured an Overture for Trumpets, by Tristram Cary.

The University is greatly indebted to Dr. Harold Rodda, the Executive Director for the Centenary Celebrations, who organised and co-ordinated the various activities.

Other Centenary functions were the two Open Days held at the North Terrace campus of the University and at the Waite Institute. There was a good attendance on both these occasions, indicating a continuing involvement and interest in the University's work by the members of the public.

Between April and August several reunion dinners were arranged for graduates.

As part of the Centenary programme, twelve academics of international standing were invited to be Visiting Centenary Professors during the year. They were:

Professor Barry S. Brook, of the City University of New York;
Professor Jerome Ch'en, of York University, Ontario;
Professor F. K. Hare, of the University of Toronto;
Dr. G. A. Harrison, of Oxford University;
Professor D. H. Lehmer, of the University of California at Berkeley;
Professor P. M. W. Thody, of the University of Leeds;
Professor J. E. Vaizey, of Brunel University;
Professor Lord Todd, of Cambridge;
Professor Sir Harrie Massey, of University College, London;
Dr. F. Sanger, of the University Postgraduate Medical School, Cambridge;
Professor G. A. Sreenevasan, of the General Hospital, Kuala Lumpur; and Miss Elizabeth Sweeting, the Administrator of the Oxford Playhouse.

The visitors spent periods of up to three months at the University, lecturing, researching, conducting tutorials and seminars, and delivering public lectures.

Throughout the year the University conducted a Centenary Appeal which was launched by the Lord Mayor, Mr. R. W. Clampett, on 22 February. The University hopes to finance a number of important projects with the money raised by the appeal, which, to date, has amounted to about $1.2 million. The projects include a Concert Hall, a library and museum in memory of Sir Douglas Mawson, an Agricultural Conference Centre at the Waite Institute, additional funds for research and for buying special collections of books, and an increased involvement in environmental studies and in Asian studies.

2. THE COUNCIL AND THE SENATE

In October, in accordance with the provisions of the University of Adelaide Act 1971-72, Mr. A. A. Graves and Mr. R. K. Ritchie retired as members of the Council elected by the undergraduates. In their places, Mr. P. E. J. Broderick and Mr. A. C. McFarlane were elected.

In November, Professor C. A. Hurst and Professor D. Rowley were elected by the Convocation of Electors as members of the academic staff to fill the vacancies arising as a result of the death of Professor N. T. Flentje and the retirement of Dr. J. Melville.

The Hon. Justice R. F. Mitchell, Mr. C. W. Bonython and Dr. N. Blewett retired as members of the Council not engaged in the employment of the University; Justice Mitchell and Mr. Bonython were re-elected by the Convocation of Electors, and Dr. J. Melville was elected in place of Dr. Blewett, who did not offer himself for re-election. A casual vacancy in this category of membership occurred as the result of the resignation of Mr. P. A. V. Roff on leaving Adelaide, and in his place Mr. H. V. Winter was elected for the unexpired portion of his term of office (one year).

In December, the Council re-elected the Hon. Justice R. F. Mitchell as Deputy Chancellor for a further term of three years.

At its meeting in November, the Senate re-elected Mr. W. M. Rogers as its Warden, and Mr. H. E. Wesley Smith as its Clerk. Dr. J. R. Casley-Smith, Dr. P. S. Davis and Miss Anne Levy were re-elected as members of the Standing Committee.

3. STAFF

(a) Deaths:

The Council records with great regret the death on 10 January 1974 of Dr. M. E. B. Smyth, Senior Lecturer in Zoology. Dr. Smyth graduated B.Sc. with First Class Honours in this University in 1960 and was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship. He obtained a D.Phil. degree from Oxford in 1964. After a period at the University of California at Los Angeles he was appointed Lecturer in Zoology here in 1965 and promoted to Senior Lecturer in 1970. Dr. Smyth was admired not only for his substantial academic achievement but also for his personal qualities, and his death was a great loss to the University.

On 25 May 1974 the University suffered a grievous loss as a result of the sudden death of Professor N. T. Flentje, its Deputy Vice-Chancellor. From the time of his appointment to the academic staff of the Waite Institute in 1944, Professor Flentje had been outstanding in his research achievements in Plant Pathology and in teaching work within the Faculty of Agricultural Science. He was Professor of Plant Pathology from 1964 to 1970. He was appointed Chairman of the Education Committee in January 1970, and his chairmanship was of such quality that it led to widespread support in the University community for his appointment as full-time Deputy Vice-Chancellor in September 1970. As Deputy Vice-Chancellor, he was a tower of strength to the University, and he was held in great esteem by all who came into contact with him.

(b) Retirements:

The following members of staff retired at the end of the year:

Mr. I. M. Thomas, who had been appointed Lecturer in Zoology in 1947 and Senior Lecturer in 1950; Dr. S. J. Edmonds, who had been appointed Lecturer in Zoology in 1952, Senior Lecturer in 1964 and Reader in 1974; Mr. L. Davies, O.B.E., who had been appointed Lecturer in Music and Teacher of Violin in 1947, and Senior Lecturer in 1960; Mrs. Ann Marshall, who had been appointed a Part-time Lecturer in Geography in 1940, Lecturer in 1958 and Senior Lecturer in 1964.

(c) Resignations:

Resignations of the following members of staff took effect during the year:

Miss Mary W. Daunton-Fear, Senior Lecturer in Law, on appointment as Senior Research Officer at the Australian Institute of Criminology, Canberra; Dr. D. Stankovich, Lecturer in German; Mr. G. Reeves, Senior Lecturer in Music; Dr. D. R. Lines, Senior Lecturer in Paediatrics, on appointment to the National Research Chair of Child Health at the University of Auckland; Dr. P. A. Dennison, Lecturer in Physics; Mr. D. M. Harman, Senior Lecturer in Architecture; Mr. M. A. Etheridge, Lecturer in Geology; Dr. J. G. Waterson, Reader in Oral Biology, on appointment to the Chair of Oral Biology at the University of Western Australia; Dr. Susan Barker, Lecturer in Geography; Dr. J. Moncrieff, Senior Lecturer in Physical Education, on appointment as Senior Lecturer in Charge of Physical Education at the University of Sydney; Dr. I. A. Shearer, Reader in Law, on appointment to a Chair of Law at the University of New South Wales; Professor D. J. Deller, Professor of Medicine; Dr. A. W. Schoenmaier, Lecturer in Commerce; Mr. R. J. Aird, Lecturer in Mechanical Engineering; Mr. R. A. Leonard, Lecturer in History.

(d) New Appointments:

The appointment of the following members of staff took effect during the year:

Director of the Waite Agricultural Research Institute: Professor J. P. Quirk, who was previously Professor of Soil Science and Plant Nutrition at the University of Western Australia.

Full-time Dean of Medicine: Professor P. Rhodes, who was previously Dean of St. Thomas's Hospital Medical School.

Professors: Dr. P. H. Glow, who was previously a Reader in Psychology, to a Personal Chair; Professor R. E. Luxton, who was previously an Associate Professor at the University of Sydney, to the Chair of Mechanical Engineering; Dr. K. Marjoribanks, who was previously a Lecturer at the University of Oxford, to a new Chair of Education; Professor G. C. Nerlich, who was previously a Professor of Philosophy at the University of Sydney, to the Hughes Chair of Philosophy; Dr. E. O. Tuck, who was previously a Reader in Applied Mathematics, to a Personal Chair; and Dr. H. B. S. Womersley, who was previously a Reader in Botany, to a Personal Chair.

Readers: Dr. P. W. Miles, Entomology, who was reappointed following a three year appointment as Professor of Zoology at the University of Zambia.

Senior Lecturers: Mr. T. Cary, Music; Dr. Margaret E. Dean, Paediatrics; Dr. T. Gotjamos, Pathology; Dr. G. G. Jamieson, Surgery; Dr. A. M. MacKinnon, Medicine; Mr. B. Marks, Law; Dr. V. R. Marshall, Surgery; Dr. E. L. Parr, Anatomy; Dr. O. M. Petrucco, Obstetrics and Gynaecology; Dr. Ying Shao-Yao, Anatomy.

Lecturers: Mr. W. E. Bodley, Civil Engineering; Mr. J. R. Braden, Law; Mr. T. L. Burton, English; Mr. R. A. Cannon, Advisory Centre for University Education; Dr. R. W. Clay, Physics; Dr. P. H. Cole, Electrical Engineering; Dr. P. E. Corcoran, Politics; Mr. J. R. Crawford, Law; Mr. C. J. Dawson, Education; Mr. K. T. Davis, Economics; Mr. T. M. Ernst, Anthropology; Mr. R. Fitzhenry, Anthropology; Mr. P. D. Flanagan, Politics; Mr. M. J. Fox, Music; Mr. G. G. Ganf, Botany; Dr. Sigrid N. Gassner, German; Dr. R. D. Goldney, Psychiatry; Dr. R. M. Hope, Genetics; Mr. W. R. Hume, Restorative Dentistry; Dr. S. S. Large, History; Mr. I. W. McLean, Economics; Mr. T. J. Mules, Economics; Mr. G. P. Mullins, Adult Education; Dr. D. A. Myers, German; Mr. T. J. Nettelbeck, Psychology; Mr. S. Ortuzar, Architecture and Town Planning; Mr. A. M. Parker, Electrical Engineering; Dr. A. J. Peace, Anthropology; Dr. D. J. Rampling, Psychiatry; Miss Susan Richardson, Economics; Dr. J. G. Sanderson, Computing Science; Dr. R. Sellick, English; Mr. D. R. Shephard, Music; Dr. R. A. Vincent, Physics; Mr. A. J. Watson, Chinese; Mrs. Helen R. Winefield, Psychiatry; Mr. M. F. Yeo, Civil Engineering.

(e) Distinctions:

Professor D. O. Jordan was awarded the Australian Polymer Medal; Mr. F. H. Mares and Mr. G. W. Turner were elected Fellows of the Australian Academy of the Humanities; Professor P. H. Glow was elected a Fellow of the Australian Academy of the Social Sciences; Miss G. P. McLeod was awarded a Churchill Fellowship; Mrs. Patricia Thomas was awarded the Verco Medal of the Royal Society of South Australia. The title of Emeritus Professor was conferred on Professor H. H. Davis, formerly Professor of Mechanical Engineering, and on Professor T. G. H. Strehlow, formerly Professor of Australian Linguistics, and the title of Emeritus Director on Dr. J. Melville, formerly Director of the Waite Agricultural Research Institute; all three had retired at the end of 1973.

4. CONDITIONS OF SERVICE OF STAFF

All full-time staff benefited from the revision of the National Wage effective in May and June 1974.

During the year the Australian Government established an Academic Salaries Tribunal; and as a result of the Tribunal's first review academic salaries were substantially increased with effect from 16 October 1974. The increases ranged from about 16% for professors to about 33% for tutors.

An important change in the conditions of appointment of professional staff was implemented at the beginning of the year. A new system of six grades replaced the old one of three grades and some adjustments were made to salary scales. The scale for professional Officer Grade II became identical with that for lecturers; the scale for Grade III continued to be identical with that for senior lecturers, but the grade became the 'career grade' for professional staff. A new Grade IV, with a single salary rate between the top of the senior lecturer scale and the salary for readers, and a new Grade V, with salary identical to that for readers, were introduced; and it was established that in future all salary scales for professional staff would be reviewed at the same time as academic salaries. Other features of the new conditions included formal provision for a year's probation at Professional Assistant or Professional Officer Grade I level.

In October the University entered into a formal Industrial Agreement with the Staff Association in respect of the conditions of appointment of professional staff.

After wide-ranging discussions, which had extended over a number of years, the Education Committee submitted a series of recommendations on the revision of conditions of service for Tutoring Grade Appointments (including those formerly called Demonstrators/Senior Demonstrators). The recommendations were approved by the Council, with the exception of one which proposed the introduction of a new grade of Principal Tutor, consideration of which was deferred pending the outcome of an Australia-wide survey on the matter by F.A.U.S.A.

During the year, both the Staff Association, which represents academic and professional staff of the University, and the Ancillary Staff Association, which represents all other staff, obtained registration under the South Australian Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

There were several major industrial matters affecting ancillary staff of the University. The most significant was a log of claims served by the Municipal Officers' Association of Australia on this University and seven others in three States under the Australian Conciliation and Arbitration Act, seeking an award to cover most of the non-academic staff. This application resulted in the Federated Clerks' Union of Australia serving a similar log of claims seeking to cover mainly clerical and administrative staff, although that Union has not yet notified any dispute to the Commission.

The M.O.A. claim was heard by Commissioner Gough, who found the existence of a dispute. The Clerks' Union challenged the ability of the M.O.A. to cover University non-academic staff in the Industrial Court and the Court decided that the M.O.A. could not cover such staff. The M.O.A. sought prerogative writs in the High Court of Australia and a decision of that Court is awaited.

The University was also served with logs of claims by unions seeking to obtain a National Building Trades Award, but it was able to negotiate an exemption from that Award.

There was a high level of consultation between all Australian Universities during the year on staff matters, and an ad hoc Committee of staff officers of Universities has been established to examine the implications of the Federal jurisdiction and the possibility of attaining greater uniformity in salaries and conditions between non-academic staff of Universities. That examination is continuing.

5. ACADEMIC MATTERS

Following the death in May of the Deputy Vice-Chancellor, Professor Flentje, the Council decided, in view of the heavy load on the Vice-Chancellor's office, to create a second post of Deputy Vice-Chancellor. Neither of the two posts could be filled during the remainder of the year, and during this period, the Vice-Chancellor was assisted by Dr. J. Melville as Acting Deputy Vice-Chancellor, together with three pro-Vice-Chancellors, Professors E. S. Barnes, D. O. Jordan and J. R. Trevaskis, working on a half-time basis.

A significant staffing development was the creation of a full-time post of Dean of the Faculty of Medicine (the first full-time Deanship in the University). Teaching posts were created for the first time in Performing Arts (Drama), Social Biology, Environmental Studies, Library Studies, Chinese and Japanese.

The introduction of a new degree of Master of Engineering Science was approved.

In June 1974 the University agreed that there was a case for the special admission to University courses of persons who had not matriculated. It was agreed that in 1975 up to 30 non-matriculants be admitted inside the quotas under a Special Entry Scheme, the final selection being the responsibility of the Faculty concerned.

In October 1974 the Education Committee set up a Committee to examine the aims and methods of assessment. The intention was not to establish a uniform University policy on assessment but to study the various methods of assessment and to make suggestions for consideration by Departments which would determine their own assessment procedures.

From 1 January 1974 the Australian Government abolished all tuition fees and associated charges (such as examination and graduation fees) at Universities and other approved institutions of tertiary education. The decision applies to all students whether full-time, part-time, or external, and includes overseas students.

In December 1974 the Education Committee after wide-ranging discussions agreed that its constitution continue to be representative of departments and of faculties but that it be increased by the appointment of additional members from the faculties then regarded as under-represented, namely Architecture and Town Planning, Arts, Economics, Law, and Science. At the same time, the Committee agreed that 33 members constitute a quorum at meetings of the Education Committee and that no business be transacted unless a full quorum is present. The Committee agreed also that, subject to prior arrangement with the Chairman, a member who was unable to attend a meeting could nominate a proxy, with power to vote.

The discussions that had been in progress in regard to the possibility of an amalgamation between the University and the Adelaide College of Advanced Education terminated during the year in an agreement that the College of Advanced Education should seek amalgamation instead with the South Australian Institute of Technology.

6. THE ACT, STATUTES AND REGULATIONS

In December 1974, the Council decided to seek certain amendments to the University of Adelaide Act 1971-72. Most of these are intended to clarify certain provisions of the Act as a result of experience during the last three years; but (if approved by Parliament) other amendments will result in increasing the size of the Council from 33 to 35, one of the additional members being appointed from the professional staff of the University, and the other from outside the University.

Variations to statutes and regulations were made, as follows:

Statutes:

Chapter I (Of the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor), Chapter IA (Of the Deputy Chancellor), and Chapter V (Of the Registrar) were repealed and replaced by new statutes entitled respectively 'Of the Chancellor and the Deputy Chancellor', 'Of the Vice-Chancellor and Deputy Vice-Chancellor' and 'Of the Senior Administrative Staff'.

Chapters VIII (Of the Academic Year), IX (Of Matriculation), X (Of the Faculties), XVIII (Of Academic Dress), and LXXXV (Of Election of Members of the Council) were amended.

Regulations:

Regulations were made to establish and govern a new degree of Master of Engineering Science; and amendments were made to the regulations covering the Honours degree of Bachelor of Science in Dentistry; the Honours degree of Bachelor of Medical Science; and the degrees of Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Medicine and Bachelor of Surgery, Master of Agricultural Science, Master of Laws, Master of Science in the Faculty of Mathematical Sciences, Master of Science in the Faculty of Science, Master of Arts, Master of Education, Master of Town Planning, and Doctor of Science in the Faculty of Science. Amendments were also made to the regulations of the Diplomas in Applied Psychology, Library Studies, Business Management, Clinical Science, Computing Science, and Education; and to the regulations of the Advanced Diploma in Education.

7. RESEARCH

103 grants were made to members of staff of the University by the Australian Research Grants Committee, totalling $833,329. These were distributed as follows:

10 projects in the Humanities and Social Sciences	42,126
10 projects in the Physical Sciences	86,653
23 projects in the Chemical Sciences	171,920
41 projects in the Biological Sciences	263,177
7 projects in the Earth Sciences	33,099
7 projects in the Engineering and Applied Sciences	34,028
2 projects in the Marine Sciences	17,061
3 projects in Upper Atmosphere Research	185,265

The largest single grants were $173,725 for a project by Professor J. H. Carver and Dr. B. H. Horton (Upper Atmosphere Research) and $44,823 for a project by Drs. T. M. Spotswood, S. F. Lincoln and T. E. M. Allen (Chemical Sciences).

The National Health and Medical Research Council awarded 27 grants totalling $162,084 for projects concerned with medical research, and scholarships for five medical and dental postgraduate research scholars.

The Reserve Bank awarded grants totalling $25,512 under the Rural Credits Development Fund Scheme to support research specifically concerned with primary industry.

The Australian Biological Resources Study Interim Council awarded grants totalling $12,250, and a number of individual grants from other organisations were made to members of staff. These included a grant of $36,225 from the Australian Water Resources Council to Professor D. J. D. Nicholas; a grant of $17,800 from the Australian Council for the Arts (Aboriginal Arts Board), for the Institute of Narrative and Music of Aborigines; and a grant of $25,639 from the Australian Wool Corporation for continuation of the postgraduate programme in wool economics research training under the direction of Professor F. G. Jarrett.

The Research Executive Committee in 1974 had $986,000 (University Research Grant) available to it for the general support of research by staff members and the training of postgraduate students. Eighteen postdoctoral fellows were funded by the Committee, and 144 postgraduate scholars (including 20 short term awards, the tenure of which was six months or less).

8. THE BARR SMITH LIBRARY

During 1974 the Library made 247,890 extramural loans to personal borrowers. Volumes lent for use only within the Library included 104,311 from the Undergraduate Services Department reserve, 14,234 from the Medical Library reserve, and 6,861 from the Special Collections Section. The Library satisfied 29,181 requests for interlibrary loans comprising 21,352 from libraries within the State, and 7,829 from libraries in other states and countries. The Library received 4,127 loans from other libraries.

Early in the year, legal advice was received that the University had no power under its Act to levy fines for infringements of Library Rules, and accordingly the Council decided on 10 May to discontinue the imposition of fines for late return of books borrowed by students. This left the Library without power to impose sanctions for the remainder of the year. A new system of sanctions based on the award of demerit points leading ultimately to possible temporary withdrawal of borrowing privileges, and applicable to all borrowers, was approved for introduction in 1975. The Council subsequently decided to seek an amendment of the Act to grant the power to levy Library fines.

Considerable progress was made towards the introduction of the projected on-line circulation system, the major computer equipment for which was received in October.

As part of its teaching function the Library conducted 27 seminars which catered for 268 advanced students, and conducted 173 tours and seminars which catered for 1,743 undergraduates.

A check on library use during the seven days beginning 7 October revealed that 43,966 persons entered the Library during the 82 hours for which it was open, the average being 536 persons per hour. The highest daily attendance during the period was 9,056.

Holdings at the end of 1974 were as follows: Central Library 576,213 volumes; Law Library 41,089; Medical Library 74,788; Music Library 2,575 (and 12,943 pieces of music in sheets); and the Waite Agricultural Research Institute Library 30,668; making total holdings of 738,276 volumes in printed form. In addition, the library held the equivalent of 55,791 volumes in microform.

Accessions for 1974 were the highest ever recorded by the Library, totalling 39,907 catalogued volumes, the equivalent of a further 4,014 volumes in microform, and 983 pieces of music in sheets. Serial titles received numbered 18,822.

As in other years, many members of the University community and other benefactors contributed generously to the development of the collections.

Among the larger gifts were the following: from the well-known author, Mrs. Robert Henry, a collection of 10 of her works; from Professor C. J. Horne, 12 manuscript notebooks of the late Professor Sir Archibald Strong; from Dr. Clement Semmler, a group of his literary papers; from the family of the late Sir Douglas and Lady Mawson, a collection of general literature; from universities and other institutions and organisations around the world, about 1,700 volumes as gifts to the University in honour of its centenary.

In February the Library received an outstanding bequest, the collection of the late Mrs. Christine Margaret Macgregor (née Barr Smith). The collection, numbering over 5,000 volumes, included items of rare Australiana, many first or limited editions, and other works distinguished for fine printing, fine binding or rarity.

9. THE ADVISORY CENTRE FOR UNIVERSITY EDUCATION

This Centre was established in September 1973 to give professional assistance to those staff members and departments who wish to improve the effectiveness of their teaching. It also provides technical services, including reprographics, video-recording and sound recording.

It carried out its functions in 1974 by running 12 courses (attended by over 250 staff members); issuing seven occasional papers, together with news letters, information sheets and lecture evaluation forms; giving advice, instruction and seminars to many staff members; conducting curriculum evaluations; and providing the technical services already mentioned.

10. SITES AND BUILDINGS

Most of the approved projects for the triennium 1973-1975 were completed during the year. As a result, extra facilities and badly needed accommodation have been brought into use. The largest project, the Library Complex extensions, which were later named the Hughes Building and the Kenneth Wills Building, has provided new accommodation for Administration, the Departments of Adult Education, Psychology, Anthropology, Asian Studies, Music and the Advisory Centre for University Education. The new modern Council Chamber is also located within the Kenneth Wills Building. Most of the rooms within these extensions overlook one of two landscaped courts provided to complement the buildings. In particular, the waterfall and pool in the Wills Court provide an especially pleasant and peaceful environment.

Other building projects completed include laboratory extensions to the Animal Physiology Building at the Waite Agricultural Research Institute, and extensive renovations and alterations to the Medical School, the Engineering Buildings and the Napier Building. Within the Napier Building, two completely modern Language Laboratories, a specialised Recording Studio and a modern Statistical Laboratory have been constructed. New change room facilities and a weight training centre were added to the Physical Education complex. The very old Rennie Lecture Theatre situated in the Johnson Building has been rejuvenated to provide modern and up-to-date lecturing facilities. A new Statistical Laboratory has been provided in the Mathematics building.

The Union Building Extension, which will provide additional refectory, shopping and cultural facilities, was considerably delayed, and was not yet complete at the end of the year.

The Mawson Building extension, which will provide additional facilities to the Department of Geology, was under construction.

Progress has been made in the rejuvenation of essential site services such as water supply, electrical distribution and road repairs.

The Site Development Study, embarked upon in 1973, has proceeded to the second of its three stages. Following the publication of the proposed Adelaide City Plan all efforts are being made by the University to work with the Planning Committee of the Adelaide City Council in the hope of achieving a mutually acceptable master plan for the future expansion of the campus.

11. FINANCIAL MATTERS

Continuing and exceptional inflation was an even more severe problem in 1974 and again the University found it necessary to exercise the strictest economies in revenue expenditure in an endeavour to limit excesses of expenditure over income to an acceptable level, having regard to funds available for the triennium 1973-75. Despite these efforts a revenue deficit of $286,000 was nevertheless incurred in 1974, and along with the deficits of $179,000 incurred in the year 1973 and $125,000 brought forward from the 1970-72 triennium, resulted in an accumulated deficit at the end of 1974 of $590,000, which will be a first charge against the funds available to the University in 1975, the last year of the current triennium. The seriousness of a continuing budget deficit cannot be too greatly emphasised; it results almost entirely from the cost escalation in salaries and wages of non-academic staff and to a lesser degree increases in the cost of other non-wage items at levels even higher than those experienced in 1973. The Universities Commission provided supplementary grants, subject to quarterly review, to meet cost escalation of non-academic salaries, National Wage increases and certain non-wage items, according to a formula based on national indices during 1974, and this basis of supplementation will also apply in 1975, but for various reasons these supplementary grants did not meet the entire short-fall. A reduction in the rate of inflation seems unlikely in the short term and it is not envisaged that the overall availability of funds to the University will show significant improvement during 1975.

12. GIFTS AND BEQUESTS

The Council acknowledges with gratitude the following gifts and bequests received during 1974, which are of course additional to the contributions made to the Centenary Appeal Fund: $32,927 from the Estate of O. R. Turner to establish the "Oliver Rutherford Turner Award" to assist two or more dental students to continue their studies; $30,000 from the Estate of A. B. Aldam for the Anti-Cancer Foundation; $26,950 from the Frank and Hilda Perry Trust to establish the Frank Perry Engineering Scholarship; $10,000 from the Estate of L. T. Harding for the Anti-Cancer Foundation; $7,000 from the Estate of J. L. Eustace for the purposes of the Dental School; $7,000 from the Estate of S. K. E. Gordon for the Anti-Cancer Foundation; $4,000 from Dr. C. P. Mountford to establish a Scholarship in Anthropology; and $3,000 from the Estate of J. F. Summers for the Anti-Cancer Foundation.

13. STATISTICS

Numbers of Students: The total number of students was 9,301, an increase of 365 on the enrolment of the previous year. Higher Degree enrolments continued to rise, attaining a record level of 1,070.

The tendency in recent years towards a greater proportion of full-time enrolments was not continued in 1974; full-time enrolments as a percentage of total enrolments were slightly lower than those in 1973. In 1974, full-time enrolments represented 66·7% of the total, or, excluding the Elder Conservatorium of Music, 68·2%.

The composition of the student body is shown in the following table:

	Males	Females	Total	%
Full-time	4,332	1,868	6,200	66·7
Other	1,879	1,012	2,891	31·1
Elder Conservatorium	110	100	210	2·2
Total Students	6,321	2,980	9,301	100·0

Distribution into Courses:

Each student is counted once only—in the category appropriate to his principal course. The figures in brackets refer to the number of females included in the totals.

Overseas Students: There were 348 overseas students (including 78 women) enrolled at the University. They were distributed amongst the Faculties and Boards of Studies as follows: Agricultural Science 40, Architecture 10, Arts 32, Dentistry 20, Economics 39, Engineering 81, Law 5, Medicine 33, Music 3, Science 83, Technology and Applied Science 2.

Of the overseas students 172 came from Malaysia, 24 from Singapore, 17 from British Isles, 14 from Vietnam, 13 from Hong Kong, 11 each from Indonesia and New Zealand, 10 from Pakistan, 8 each from Canada, Thailand and India, 5 each from New Guinea, Brunei and Taiwan, 4 each from U.S.A., Japan and Iran, 3 each from Burma and Germany, 2 each from Ghana, Egypt, Italy and Laos, and 1 each from Ceylon, Fiji, France, Tanzania, Trinidad, Philippines, Morocco, South America, Yugoslavia, British Solomon Islands and Cambodia.

Student Health Service: The total number of individual services rendered during the year was 10,234, including 1,747 routine medical examinations of students, 2,160 casualties, 2,376 return visits from casualty service, 1,568 poliomyelitis immunisations, 374 tetanus prophylactic injections, and 1,860 Mantoux tests. The total does not include Chest X-rays arranged by the Service at the City X-ray Unit. Of the 2,160 casualties, 1,664 were illnesses, 407 accidents and 89 sports injuries.

Student Counselling Service: Recorded individual counselling discussions, typically of one hour duration on each occasion, were conducted with 875 students of all faculties and years, both undergraduate and postgraduate. The difficulties for which assistance was sought ranged widely throughout educational, vocational and personal matters, often in combination, but always in uniquely individual circumstances. The proportion of students who are seriously disturbed appears to be steadily increasing. Counselling was also provided to a number of members of the academic staff, in several cases regularly and intensively throughout the year. Group activities to foster socialisation and personal development were conducted throughout the year, involving 180 individual students.

15. ADULT EDUCATION

The most important development in 1974 was the granting of a full broadcast licence to the University's educational station VL5UV. This will mean that early in 1975 it will begin broadcasting at 1,560 kHz with a new call sign 5UV. In addition, the filter will be removed and the programming of music will begin.

VL5UV has operated on a frequency of 1,630 kHz just off the top end of the broadcast band in that part of the spectrum reserved for fixed and mobile services. For this reason a number of restrictions were placed on the station's operations but the signal could be received by about 80% of ordinary commercial sets without modification and the others needed only a minor adjustment. The station operated for approximately 20 hours a week for about 40 weeks of the year. About half the time was taken up with the broadcast of structured course material, 1,451 students enrolling for general courses and 520 for specialist courses. In addition over 70 secondary schools were enrolled on a group basis and about 358 radio guild members received the programme guide and were given a reduction on course fees. General interest courses included China since Chairman Mao, Literature for Children and Major Australian Poets; and those for professional groups included Nursing School of the Air, Managing People in Organisations and Economics for Non-Economists.

In addition to course material the station broadcast many general programmes produced by overseas educational agencies, e.g. the British Council, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Radio Nederlands. The station also recorded for subsequent broadcast all the Centenary Lectures delivered at the University and many other lectures given to University audiences and professional associations. The increased opportunities offered by the new licence will allow the station to expand its general educational programming of locally recorded material, as well as using excellent educational programmes from a variety of overseas sources.

The following is a summary of the other activities of the Department:

Seminars and Schools: Twenty-seven schools, seminars and conferences were arranged with a total enrolment of 1,900. These courses varied in length and content, e.g. the Music School (14 days), the Environmental School (14 days), the Pitjantjatjara Intensive Language Course (19 days), the Adelaide Hills (2 days), the Young Writers' Workshop (7 days).

Residential Courses: Some schools and seminars were residential, e.g. the one week Summer School of Art, the Young Writers' Workshop, the Summer School of Environmental Studies and a foreign language week-end (all at the Graham's Castle Residential Centre at Goolwa), and the Music School held at Aquinas College and Carclew.

Classes for the General Public: Forty-three classes were conducted, mainly in the evenings, on a weekly basis and included 23 language courses and 20 others, enrolment 1,138. In addition the radio station conducted 21 courses for general audiences with an enrolment of 1,451.

Extension Courses: Twelve extension courses for professional people were offered on such subjects as Economics for Other Professions, Soil Mechanics, Orchestral Conducting and Librarianship (total enrolment 617). Besides, a number of extension courses were conducted by radio with an enrolment of 520.

Discussion Groups: Eight groups met in metropolitan and rural centres to discuss courses in philosophy, comparative religion, music and literature (total enrolment 161).

Publications: The quarterly journal Issue published the proceedings of many of the department's seminars, and proceedings of four other seminars were published—The Coorong, The Adelaide Hills, The Outer Suburbs and Fishing Boat Economics.

16. THE APPOINTMENTS BOARD

The major development of the year was the acceptance by the Council of the Report submitted to it by the Board in December 1973. The recommendations in the Report included the re-naming of the Board as the "Careers Advisory Board", with an increased membership to include senior academic staff and representatives from commerce, industry and Government, as well as representatives of postgraduate and undergraduate students. The new Board will come into existence in 1975, and its duties will include careers guidance as well as placement.

Recommendations were made for improved accommodation for interviews, careers counselling and information services. Council also approved the establishment of a post of Careers Officer who would be Secretary of the Board, and the provision of additional support staff. Funds, however, were not immediately available to implement these recommendations fully, but interim arrangements have been made for a Professional Officer on a full-time basis and another Professional Officer on a half-time basis to develop the Careers Advisory Service's activities. Improved (but not fully adequate) accommodation for the Service has been provided on the top floor of the Old Classics Wing.

During the year the Board continued and developed its existing programme. This included arranging 1,500 campus interviews between final year students and some 40 employers; the distribution of "Graduate Careers" to over 1,300 graduands; close liaison with the Professional Employment Service of the Department of Labour and Immigration who gave assistance on campus to 225 final year students; the annual survey of the first employment of graduates and the manning of a display on graduate careers during Open Days.

The Board, in collaboration with the Youth Employment Service of the Department of Labour and Immigration, also produced 55,000 copies of the broadsheet "Careers and Courses in South Australia" and at a special Careers Advisory ceremony in August a copy of this was formally accepted by the State Minister of Education from the Deputy Vice-Chancellor at the invitation of the Minister of Labour and Immigration.

The Annual General Meeting of the Graduate Careers Council of Australia was held at the University in August, and at the invitation of the Appointments Board Professor Kenneth Hare, a Centenary Visiting Lecturer, was guest speaker on the topic "Careers for Environmental Scientists".

17. THE UNIVERSITY UNION

The first full Union Council year under the new Constitution ended in July and there was a general feeling within the Union that the change had been for the better. The Chairman for 1973-74 was Dr. E. H. Medlin who has also been re-elected for 1974-75.

The major pre-occupation of the Union over the last 18 months has been the second stage of its major re-development programme. Originally scheduled to be completed during July at a cost of just over $1 million, industrial unrest and shortage of materials have delayed the completion of the project by about seven months, and inflation is, unfortunately, expected to add over 25% to the cost. When complete the new building will greatly increase the range of activities possible within the Union.

Inflation has hit the Union in other respects as well. Highly unpopular increases in food prices have had to be passed on to members, most of whom are on modest living allowances which have not kept up with inflation. Wage costs have increased markedly in relation to other costs and the Union has been considering a variety of ways to raise more revenue while reducing expenditure without adversely affecting activities within the completed building.

During 1974 the Union sought, and was granted, a judicial promise that when the new building was completed, it would be able to operate a licensed bar and bistro, which will no doubt help to make the Union more in fact what it has always been in name—a meeting place for the whole University Community.

The Union has continued to encourage Social Action in its endeavours to help the underprivileged young people in the South-East Corner of the City of Adelaide. The Union has also taken a great interest in the City of Adelaide Development Plan, and has made detailed submissions on a wide range of subjects.

The Students' Association revised its constitution this year with the result that a number of new committees have been formed. The re-organisation was intended to make the S.A.U.A. more effective and responsive to student needs. A major impetus for the reform was the lack of communication between committees in the past. The expansion of the Central Executive Committee to include all other committee chairmen is expected to improve co-ordination.

The Sports Association now has 30 clubs within its membership. The total membership of the clubs is over 3,500. The Association has 106 acres of sports ground under its control. The West Beach playing fields, which have an area of nearly 50 acres, are in use but have not yet been completed.

The Sports Association has revised its constitution to bring about a more efficient management structure and to emphasise its recreational role. This emphasis on recreation rather than competition has increased over the last few years.

18. STUDENT MATTERS

The Board of Management for Non-Collegiate Housing (a Committee of the University Council) administered 10 residential properties owned by the University in North Adelaide. These houses provided accommodation for 38 students. During the year the Board determined the architectural brief and concept plans for Stage I of a new student housing project at Gilberton. This project will provide accommodation for 72 students in 12 household units of six persons each, and should be completed during 1975. Land adjacent to this housing site was purchased during the year by the University for the purpose of providing a further 120 student places, if the Universities Commission grants financial support.

The University Loan Fund continues to meet the pressing needs of many students whose various circumstances may otherwise have led to their studies being discontinued. There were 118 applications for assistance from the Fund, in response to which $35,985 was made available in repayable loans and $3,620 in non-repayable grants. In addition a Short Term Loan Fund assisted 57 students for whom repayable loans totalling $2,963 were approved.

From the beginning of 1974 the Australian Government's new scheme for providing means tested living allowances to all Australian, non-bonded, full-time, tertiary students taking approved courses has been in operation. At the University of Adelaide in 1974, of the 5,629 non-higher degree, full-time, enrolled students about 50% received some amount of living allowance and a further 10% received assistance in the payment of their University Union Fees under the provisions of the preceding Commonwealth Scholarship scheme. Living allowances made available to students ranged from $50 p.a. to $1,400 p.a. All students who received such a living allowance also received an Incidentals Allowance provided to meet the University Union Fee and to contribute towards the cost of books and equipment.

19. MISCELLANEOUS

In June 1974, the Vice-Chancellor attended the Sixth Commonwealth Education Conference in Jamaica as a member of the Australian delegation. Previous Conferences had been held in Oxford (1959), New Delhi (1962), Ottawa (1964), Lagos (1968), and Canberra (1971). The objectives of the Sixth Conference were:

- (a) to review present schemes of Commonwealth co-operation in education, and to recommend ways by which these may be developed and made more effective;
- (b) to focus attention on major education trends and problems and identify means by which further Commonwealth co-operation might benefit member countries; and
- (c) to consider any other proposals for the advancement of these aims, and to make recommendations concerning them.

Most Commonwealth countries were represented at the Conference, which was held at Ministerial level. The Conference provided a forum for the exchange of ideas, and co-operative planning, and proved to be most successful. Of particular interest and concern were the reports of discrepancies in educational opportunities between the "Metropolitan" and "Third World" countries.

The Council this year honoured five men who have played significant roles in the development of this University by naming buildings and courts on campus after them. The Hughes Building and Court were named after Sir Walter Hughes whose gift of $40,000 led to the establishment of the University. The part of the Library Complex that houses the Horace Lamb Theatre has been named the Horace Lamb Building. Sir Horace Lamb was the University's first Professor of Mathematics.

The Kenneth Wills Building and the Wills Court commemorate the work of Sir Kenneth Wills, a distinguished Adelaide business man who served the University in many ways. He was Chairman of the Finance Committee from 1954 to 1960, Deputy Chancellor from 1961 to 1966, and Chancellor from 1966 to 1968. He was also a member of the Australian Universities' Commission from 1959 to 1965.

The building housing the Mawson Institute, part of Physics, and Mathematical Physics, has been named the Oliphant Wing. Sir Mark Oliphant is one of the University's most distinguished graduates in physics. He was Professor of Physics in Birmingham, and later became Director of the Research School of Physical Sciences at A.N.U. He was the first President of the Australian Academy of Science. Sir Mark, now Governor of South Australia, is the Visitor of the University.

The buildings housing the Physical Education Department on Mackinnon Parade have been named the Mark Mitchell Centre. Sir Mark, a graduate of Adelaide and Cambridge Universities, was Professor of Biochemistry from 1938 to 1963 and Deputy Vice-Chancellor from 1950 to 1965, and became the first Chancellor of Flinders University in 1966.

The Council adopted a policy to commission portraits of all its Chancellors and full-time Vice-Chancellors, and of certain distinguished scholars of the University. In accordance with this policy, steps were taken to commission portraits of the present Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, of former Vice-Chancellor Sir Henry Basten and of the Governor of South Australia, Sir Mark Oliphant. A portrait of another former Vice-Chancellor, Dr. A. P. Rowe, had been previously commissioned by the University Union, which has made it available to the University.

20. FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

An abstract of the income and expenditure of the University during 1974 is annexed to this Report, together with a further statement showing the actual position of the University with respect to its property, funds and liabilities at the close of 1974.

Signed on behalf of the Council,

J. J. BRAY,

Adelaide,

5 September, 1975.

Chancellor.

Seasonal anaemia in the Rottneest quokka, Setonix brachyurus (Quoy & Gaimard) (Marsupialia; Macropodidae) (with R. Glover, P. Jacobsen and B. A. Kakulas). Comparative biochemistry and physiology 49A (1974), 147-157.

Studies on seasonal anaemia in the Rottneest Island quokka, Setonix brachyurus (Quoy & Gaimard) (Marsupialia; Macropodidae). Royal Society of South Australia. Transactions 98 (1974), 43-48.

BUZZELL, GERALD RAYMOND, M.Sc. (McG.), Ph.D. (A.N.U.), Temporary Lecturer.

A technique for demonstrating glands in miracidia of some Fasciolidae (Trematoda). Stain technology 49 (1974), 39-42.

DUCKHOUSE, DEREK ANTHONY, Ph.D. (Lond.), Senior Lecturer.

Redescription of the neotropical Psychodidae (Diptera, Nematocera) described by Knab, Dyar and Coquillet. Journal of entomology B42 (1974), 141-152.

Redescription of the neotropical Psychodidae (Diptera, Nematocera) described by Rapp and Curran. Journal of entomology B43 (1974), 55-62.

EDMONDS, STANLEY JOE, B.A., Ph.D., Reader.

A new species of Sipuncula (Aspidosiphon exiguus n. sp.), belonging to the interstitial fauna of marine beaches collected by Mr. L. Botosaneanu during the Second Cuban-Romanian Biospeleological Expedition to Cuba 1973. International journal of speleology 6 (1974), 187-192.

MANWELL, CLYDE, M.S. (Wash.), Ph.D. (Stan.), Professor.

Penguin proteins: biochemical contributions to classification and natural history (with C. M. Ann Baker). In Stonehouse, B., ed. The biology of penguins. London, Macmillan, 1974, p. 43-55.

SOMMERVILLE, RAYMOND IAN, M.Agr.Sc. (N.Z.), Ph.D., Reader.

Molting in a parasitic nematode, Phocanema decipiens. VII. The mode of action of the ecdysial hormone (with K. G. Davey). International journal for parasitology 4 (1974), 241-259.

Zoology. Electron Microscope Unit

BOLTON, TIFFANY JANET AMBROSE, B.Sc., Research Assistant.

Electron microscopy of the effects of histamine and thermal injury on the blood and lymphatic endothelium, and the mesothelium of the mouse's diaphragm, together with the influence of coumarin and rutin (with J. R. Casley-Smith). Experientia 29 (1973), 1386-1389.

CASLEY-SMITH, JOHN ROYLE, D.Phil. (Oxford), M.B., B.S., D.Sc., F.R.M.S., F.R.S.M., Reader in Charge.

Electron microscopy of the effects of histamine and thermal injury on the blood and lymphatic endothelium, and the mesothelium of the mouse's diaphragm, together with the influence of coumarin and rutin (with T. Bolton). Experientia 29 (1973), 1386-1389.

Fine structural aspects of lymphoedema in various tissues, and the effects of treatment with coumarin and rutin (with E. Földi-Börcsök and M. Földi). British journal of experimental pathology 55 (1974), 88-93.

Further investigations in the stabilization of meat (with H. W. Ehmman). Armed Forces Food Science Establishment, Scottsdale, Tasmania. Minor report no. CR/5 (1973), 14p.

The pathogenesis of oedemas, and the action of coumarin and related compounds (with N. B. Piller). Folia angiologica. Supplement 3 (1974), 33-60.

Quantitation and the estimation of section thickness with a Faraday-cage and from plates (with K. W. J. Crocker). International Congress of Electron Microscopy, 8th, 1974. Proceedings 2, p. 184-185.

Quantitative morphology of fenestrated capillaries in the jejunum; correlations with experiment and theory (with P. J. O'Donoghue and K. W. J. Crocker). International Congress of Electron Microscopy, 8th, 1974. Proceedings 2, p. 404-405.

The structure of muscle cells, the distribution of water in them, and how these affect freeze drying. Armed Forces Food Science Establishment, Scottsdale, Tasmania. Report 2 (1973), 6-17.

Birds and animals of Australasia. Translated from the French of A. Roby. Adelaide, Rigby, 1973, 126p.

CROCKER, KENNETH WILLIAM JOHN, Laboratory Technician.

Quantitation and the estimation of section thickness with a Faraday-cage and from plates (with J. R. Casley-Smith). International Congress of Electron Microscopy, 8th, 1974. Proceedings 2, p. 184-185.

Quantitative morphology of fenestrated capillaries in the jejunum; correlations with experiment and theory (with J. R. Casley-Smith and P. J. O'Donoghue). International Congress of Electron Microscopy, 8th, 1974. Proceedings 2, p. 404-405.

EHMANN, HARALD FRIEDRICH WILHELM, Engineering Mechanic.

Further investigations in the stabilization of meat (with J. R. Casley-Smith). Armed Forces Food Science Establishment, Scottsdale, Tasmania. Minor report no. CR/5 (1973), 14p.

O'DONOGHUE, PETER JOHN, B.Sc. Honours Student.

Quantitative morphology of fenestrated capillaries in the jejunum; correlations with experiment and theory (with J. R. Casley-Smith and K. W. J. Crocker). International Congress of Electron Microscopy, 8th, 1974. Proceedings 2, p. 404-405.

PILLER, NEIL BRENTON, B.Sc., Postgraduate Student.

The pathogenesis of oedemas, and the action of coumarin and related compounds (with J. R. Casley-Smith). Folia angiologica. Supplement 3 (1974), 33-60.

DEPARTMENT OF ADULT EDUCATION

LAWTON, COLIN ROBERT, M.A.C.E., Senior Administrative Assistant.

Radio and television in adult education. Australian journal of adult education 14 (1974), 31-32.

Hospital design and planning. Edited by C. R. Lawton. Adelaide, Hospitals Department of South Australia, 1974, 74p.

WHITELOCK, DEREK ANTHONY, M.A. (Oxford), Dip.Ed. (Durh.), Ph.D. (N.E.), Assistant Director.

Threat to the lucky country. Hemisphere 18 (1974), 2-8.

The great tradition: a history of adult education in Australia. Brisbane, University of Queensland Press, 1974, 327p.

ADVISORY CENTRE FOR UNIVERSITY EDUCATION

HALL, WILLIAM CECIL, B.Sc. (Sheff.), M.Sc. (E. Anglia), Ph.D. (Lond.), Director.

Make science a humanity. Australian science teachers journal 19 (1973), 43-47.

Teaching tertiary teachers to teach. Times higher education supplement, no. 138 (7 June 1974), 13.

Patterns. Pupils' manual 3 (with J. Bausor and B. Mowl). London, Longman, 1974, 270p.

Patterns. Teachers' guide 2 (with J. Bausor and B. Mowl). London, Longman, 1974, 191p.

Patterns. Teachers' guide 3 (with J. Bausor and B. Mowl). London, Longman, 1974, 255p.

ANTI-CANCER FOUNDATION

HASKARD, DONALD LEITH, B.E., Physicist.

Photon beam dosimetry in the range 1 to 10 mv (with B. W. Worthley). Australasian bulletin of medical physics and biophysics 62 (1974), 1-9.

BARR SMITH LIBRARY

SLIGHT, OWEN EDMONDS, B.A. (W. Aust.), A.L.A.A., Deputy Librarian.

New subject catalogues for old. Australian library journal 23 (1974), 91-94.

HEALTH SERVICE

HEDDLE, ROBERT CHARLES, M.D., F.R.A.C.G.P., Director.

Profile of students at the University of Adelaide. British Student Health Association. Proceedings 25 (1973), 43-54.

Illness in the adolescent. Australian family physician 3 (1974), 194-198.

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S OFFICE

BADGER, GEOFFREY MALCOLM, M.Sc. (Melb.), Ph.D. (Lond.), D.Sc. (Glas.), F.A.A., F.R.I.C., F.R.A.C.I., F.A.C.E., F.A.I.M., Vice-Chancellor.

LIST OF HIGHER DEGREE THESES LODGED IN THE BARR SMITH LIBRARY DURING 1974
FACULTY OF AGRICULTURAL SCIENCE

Agricultural Biochemistry and Soil Science

- AMINUDDIN, MOHAMMED BIN MOHAMMED ROUSE, B.Sc. (Malaya).
The oxidation of inorganic sulphur compounds in relation to denitrification in Thiobacillus denitrificans. (Ph.D.)
- CHAPMAN, KEITH SAMUEL ROY, B.Ag.Sc.
Effects of boron deficiency on RNA metabolism in Phaseolus aureus root tips. (Ph.D.)
- KOUNDAKJIAN, PATRICIA, B.Sc.
Lipid metabolism in sheep: a study of the metabolism of ketone bodies and carnitine in various tissues of the sheep. (Ph.D.)
- WETHERBY, KENNETH GORDON, B.Ag.Sc. (Idaho).
The geology, paleopedology, soils and land use in the Northern Murray Mallee, South Australia. (M.Ag.Sc.)

Agronomy

- FUKAI, SHU, B.Ag.Sc. (Tokyo).
Effects of light energy and temperature on growth of subterranean clover communities. (Ph.D.)
- CHAHOOR ARAIN, ABDUL, M.Sc.Agric. (Sind).
The influence of induced mutation on the adaptation of barley cultivars. (Ph.D.)
- HOLLAMBY, GILBERT JOHN, B.Ag.Sc.
The measurement of genotype-environment interaction in plant breeding. (M.Ag.Sc.)
- KLOOT, PETER MICHAEL, B.Ag.Sc.
Studies in the ecology of Pheasant's Eye (Adonis microcarpus DC). (M.Ag.Sc.)
- SIVALINGHAM, THAMBIAPPAH, B.Sc. Agric. (Poona).
Some effects of treading by sheep on pastures in a Mediterranean environment of South Australia. (M.Ag.Sc.)

Animal Physiology

- DOLLING, COLIN ERROL, B.Sc.
A study of thyroidal iodoproteins in congenital goitre of South Australian merino sheep. (M.Ag.Sc.)

Entomology

- FURNESS, GEOFFREY OWEN, B.Ag.Sc.
The ecology and control of the long-tailed mealybug in the Riverland area of South Australia. (M.Ag.Sc.)
- HOWARD, GEOFFREY WILLIAM, M.Ag.Sc.
Aspects of the epidemiology of Eperythrozoon ovis in South Australia. (Ph.D.)
- MALLIK, MOSLEH UDDIN, M.Sc. (Dacca)
Studies on the incorporation of carbon-14 into the tissues of larval Galleria mellonella L. with emphasis on the effects of the radioisotope on the fecundity of surviving adults. (Ph.D.)
- SYMONS, LAWRENCE ERIC ALEXANDER, B.V.Sc. (Syd.), M.Sc.
Studies on the pathophysiology of parasitic disease. (D.Sc.)

Plant Pathology

PRICE, PHILIP CECIL, B.Ag.Sc. (Lond.).

Investigation of a nematode-bacterium disease complex affecting Wimmera Ryegrass. (Ph.D.)

REZAIAN, MOHAMMED ALI, M.Ag.Sc. (Tehran).

Studies on ribonucleic acids associated with the replication of tobacco ringspot virus. (Ph.D.)

Plant Physiology

FAULL, KYM FRANCIS, B.Ag.Sc.

The control of gibberellin biosynthesis in higher plants. (Ph.D.)

GIBSON, ROBERT ALAN, B.Sc. (Carleton).

The lysosomal nature of hormonally induced enzymes in wheat aleurone cells. (Ph.D.)

SINGH, TARAK NATH, M.Sc.(Ag.) (Banaras).

Water stress and protein and amino acid metabolism in barley and wheat. (Ph.D.)

FACULTY OF ARCHITECTURE AND TOWN PLANNING

GRIGGS, ARDEN MICHAEL, B.Arch.

An examination of planning principles for lower density residential development in Canberra. (M.T.P.)

HARRIS, JOHN, B.Sc. (Bristol).

Optimizing the shared use of the private car by commuters, with particular reference to Adelaide. (M.T.P.)

MOSELEY, GRAHAM EDWARD, B.E.

The planning and design of movement corridors with particular reference to Canberra. (M.T.P.)

POTTER, DAVID CHARLES, B.E.

The multiple use of schools and other public and community facilities. (M.T.P.)

RODER, JOHN HERBERT, M.A., LL.B.

Objections and appeals against planning decisions. (M.T.P.)

WARD, RICHARD NORMAN, B.Arch. (N.Z.).

Planning against noise. (M.T.P.)

FACULTY OF ARTSEducation

WISEMAN, ROGER, B.Sc., Dip.Ed.

An investigation into the social integration and academic achievement of students of Dutch, Italian and Polish parentage in South Australian secondary schools. (M.Ed.)

English Language and Literature

DOBREZ, LIVIO ANTHONY CHARLES, M.A.

Modern existential philosophy and the work of Beckett, Ionesco, Genet and Pinter. (Ph.D.)

SCHWERDT, DIANNE ONA, B.A., Dip.Ed.

Patrick White: a critical analysis of his novels. (M.A.)

SELICK, ROBERT, B.A.

The epic confrontation: Australian exploration and the centre, 1813-1900. A literary study. (Ph.D.)

Geography

BOURMAN, ROBERT PETER, B.A.

Geomorphic evolution of southeastern Fleurieu Peninsula. (M.A.)

HARRIS, COLIN RAYMOND, B.A., Dip.Ed.

The national parks and reserves of South Australia. (M.A.)

RISLER, ELIZABETH LORRAINE, B.A.

Wet season climatology in northwest Australia. (M.A.)

History

BARBALET, MARGARET EVELYN, B.A.

State children, theory and practice in South Australia, 1918-1928. (M.A.)

DYER, STEPHEN WILLIAM, B.A., Dip.Ed.

Farmers and the depression; government farm relief in South Australia 1929-1939. (M.A.)

WAIT, ROBERT NOEL, B.A.

Reactions to demonstrations and riots in Adelaide, 1928-1932. (M.A.)

Politics

JAENSCH, DEAN HAROLD, M.A.

Political representation in colonial South Australia, 1857-1901. (Ph.D.)

Psychology

CAIRNEY, PETER THOMSON, M.A. (Dundee).

Selective attention, order judgement, and the prior entry hypothesis. (Ph.D.)

NETTELBECK, THEODORE JOHN, B.A.

An experimental investigation of some parameters affecting individual differences in perception. (Ph.D.)

WINEFIELD, HELEN RUSSELL, B.A.

Operant remedial techniques with reading retardation in children. (Ph.D.)

FACULTY OF DENTISTRYDental Health

SPRY, CHARLES COURTENAY, B.D.Sc. (Q'ld.).

Epidemiological aspects of cleft lip and cleft palate in South Australia, 1949-1968 (inclusive). (M.D.Sc.)

Oral Biology

HUME, WYATT RODERIC, B.D.S.

Cholinergic factors in the maintenance of vascular tone. (Ph.D.)

SCHULZE, JOHN MICHAEL, B.D.S. (Otago).

Body-build and dentofacial associations in Australian aborigines. (M.D.S.)

Oral Pathology and Oral Surgery

LAM, WILLIAM KUI-PO, B.D.S.

The temporomandibular joint of the rat: effects of occlusal disharmony and disturbances in collagen metabolism. (M.D.S.)

FACULTY OF ECONOMICSCommerce

PATRICKSON, MARGARET GRAHAM, B.Sc. (N.S.W.).

An investigation into the effects of environmental uncertainty on the decision making practices of two organizations. (M.B.M.)

Economics

MACKAY, JAMES GORDON, M.A. (Aberdeen).

Methods of financing the Australian Health Services. (M.Ec.)

MULES, TREVOR JOHN, M.Ec.

Supply analysis for Australian agricultural products with applications to farm and national income estimation. (Ph.D.)

RODWAY, DAVID CHARLES, B.Ec. (W. Aust.).

Characteristics of administrators: a study of administrators in the South Australian Public Service. (M.Ec.)

SANDO, ALLAN FREDERICK, B.E.

The management of further education in South Australia. (M.B.M.)

FACULTY OF ENGINEERINGChemical Engineering

PEARCE, ANTHONY SCOTT, B.App.Sc.

Strain ageing in alpha-titanium. (M.App.Sc.)

Civil Engineering

LAWRENCE, STEPHEN JAMES, B.E.

Stiffening effect of cladding on light-weight structures. (M.E.)

LAING, IAN EDWARD, B.E.

Structural analysis of stop valve anchor chambers. (M.E.)

MITCHELL, PETER WARWICK, B.E.

The behaviour of sand under three-dimensional states of stress. (M.E.)

READ, ANTHONY LLEWELLYN, B.E.

Hydraulic and hydrologic concepts for the West Lakes development. (M.E.)

Electrical Engineering

OLESNICKY, ROMAN MARIA EUGENE, B.Sc., B.E.

A fast graphics interface for printed circuit board design. (M.E.)

NAMPOORI, M. N. NEELAKANTAN, B.Sc.(Eng.) (Kerala), M.E., M.Sc. (Baroda).

Active filters using tapered double layer RC distributed lines. (Ph.D.)

PATTERSON, DEAN JAMES, M.E.

Parallel data transmission in the dispersive channel. (Ph.D.)

VAN NGUYEN, TRAN, B.E., B.Sc.,

Broadside and endfire antennas associated with diffracting partitions in navigation. (Ph.D.)

Mechanical Engineering

KWOK HAE LEONG, B.E.

The effect of foundation settlement on the distribution of bending moments in a building frame. (M.E.)

FACULTY OF MATHEMATICAL SCIENCESApplied Mathematics

HAZELGROVE, MAXWELL KEITH, B.Sc.

Stability properties of two dimensional sail configurations. (Ph.D.)

JONES, RHYS, B.Sc.

Application of the method of constant deflection contour lines to elastic plate and shell problems. (Ph.D.)

POSANER, FRANZ MICHEL, B.Sc.

Operations research techniques applied to mine production planning. (Ph.D.)

Computing Science

HEMMERLING, MALCOLM BRIAN, B.Sc.

The generation by computers of timetables for South Australian secondary schools. (Ph.D.)

RISTICZ, ALEXANDER, B.Sc.

An investigation of the game of poker by computer based analysis. (Ph.D.)

Mathematical Physics

CAREY, ALAN LAWRENCE, B.Sc. (Syd.).

Parafermion algebras of order 2 and their applications. (M.Sc.)

GRAY, DOUGLAS ANDREW, B.Sc.

Group theoretical aspects of parafields. (Ph.D.)

LOHE, MAX ADOLPH, B.Sc.

The development of the boson calculus for the orthogonal and symplectic groups. (Ph.D.)

FACULTY OF MEDICINE

Anatomy and Histology

TEO, EE HIOK, B.Sc. (Singapore).

The neurohypophysis of Trichosurus vulpecula: a morphological study relating to function. (M.Sc.)

TYLER, MICHAEL JAMES

Superficial mandibular musculature and vocal sac structure in the Anura. (M.Sc.)

Medicine

DOUGLAS, ROBERT MATHESON, M.B., B.S.

Studies in pneumonia and its prevention. (M.D.)

HART, GAVIN, B.Sc., M.B., B.S.

The impact of prostitution on Australian troops on active service in a war environment - with particular reference to sociological factors involved in the incidence and control of venereal disease. (M.D.)

JOSE, DAVID GILBERT, M.B., B.S.

Malnutrition and immunity: biological interactions between infection, malignancy and host immunity in protein-calorie malnutrition; studies of Australian aboriginal children and laboratory animal models. (M.D.)

PEMBREY, RICHARD GRAHAM, M.B., B.S. (Lond.).

Thrombocytopenia in infections. (M.D.)

SORRELL, TANIA CHRISTINE, M.B., B.S.

Anticonvulsant drugs in immunosuppression and carcinogenesis. (M.D.)

Psychiatry

BYRNE, DONALD GLENN, B.A.

Depressive illness: some psychomotor and psycho-physiological studies. (Ph.D.)

LUGG, DESMOND JAMES, M.B., B.S.

Anatomy of a group in Antarctica. (M.D.)

FACULTY OF MUSIC

- AMPT, ROBERT MILTON, B.Mus.
Music iconography and performance practice in the time of Heinrich Schütz.
(M.Mus.)
- MCSKIMMING, DAVID GRANT, B.Mus.
The life and music of Karol Szymanowski. (M.Mus.)
- NAYLOR, BRUCE ALLAN, B.Mus.
Organ building in South Australia. (M.Mus.)

FACULTY OF SCIENCE

Biochemistry and General Physiology

- ASHMAN, LEONIE KAY, B.Sc. (Flinders).
Pyruvate carboxylase; reaction mechanism and chemical studies of the active centre. (Ph.D.)
- GOULD, ALLAN ROBERT, B.Sc.
Studies of extracellular enzyme formation by Bacillus amyloliquefaciens.
(Ph.D.)
- MCINNIS, JAMES LAURIE, A.U.A. (Pharm.), B.Sc.
Extracellular enzyme formation by Bacillus amyloliquefaciens. (Ph.D.)
- MAERSCHEL, RICHARD JOHN, B.Sc.
The development of methods for assaying organic iodine compounds in human serum. (M.Sc.)
- MEANEY, MAXWELL FRANCIS, B.A. (Q'ld.), B.Sc.
Sulphate metabolism in normal and cancerous tissue. (M.Sc.)
- WALKER, IAN DOUGLAS, B.Sc.
The structure of down feather keratin. (Ph.D.)

Botany

- KADIR ZAID BIN ABDUL, M.Sc. (Sind).
Evolution in the genus Gossypium with supplementary observations on other genera. (Ph.D.)
- MIN THEIN, B.Sc. (Mandalay).
Studies on the Solieriaceae, Rhabdoniaceae and Rhodophyllidaceae (Gigartinales, Rhodophyta) of southern Australia. (Ph.D.)
- SHERIFF, DAVID WILLIAM, B.Sc.
Some aspects of plant hydrodynamics with reference to modelling by electrical analogies. (Ph.D.)

Human Physiology and Pharmacology

- HALL, RODNEY CHARLES, M.Sc., M.B., Ch.B. (Birm.).
Vasoactive hormones in stress. (M.D.)
- ROBERTS, RICHARD GREGORY DENNIS, B.Sc., Dip.Ed.
Contraction of muscle in altered conic environment. (M.Sc.)

Microbiology

- BATEMAN, ROGER GEORGE, B.Sc.
Species susceptibility to pneumococcal infection. (Ph.D.)
- Goss, MAURICE LLOYD, B.Sc.
Enteroviruses and bacteria in relation to sewage treatment effluents. (M.Sc.)
- SKURRAY, RONALD ANTHONY, A.U.A. (Pharm.), B.Sc.
Physiology of Escherichia coli K-12 during conjugation. (Ph.D.)

TYSON, CHRISTOPHER JOHN, B.Sc.

Recognition of foreign particles by haemocytes from the crayfish (Parachae-raps bicarinatus). (Ph.D.)

Organic Chemistry

CADBY, PETER ALAN, B.Sc.

Some reactions of $\alpha\beta$ -acetylenic acids, esters and N-acylureas. (Ph.D.)

INGHAM, COLIN FRANKLIN, B.Sc.

The synthesis of two related sesquiterpenes. (Ph.D.)

KORYTNYK, WSEWOLOD, Ph.D.

Chemistry, biochemistry and pharmacology of vitamin B₆ and other topics. (D.Sc.)

NICHOLSON, BRENTON CUMMINGS, B.Sc.

¹⁹F NMR of the interaction of -chymotrypsin with N-trifluoroacetyl amino acids. (Ph.D.)

NUSSEY, BRIAN, B.Sc.

Some studies in organic mass spectrometry. (Ph.D.)

PHILIPOU, GEORGE, M.Sc.

Intramolecular cyclizations of substituted 5-hexenyl radicals. (Ph.D.)

Physical and Inorganic Chemistry

BATEUP, BRETT OLIVER, B.Sc.

The kinetics and mechanism of the polymerization of methyl methacrylate initiated by organomagnesium compounds. (Ph.D.)

BUTLER, KEITH RAYMOND, B.Sc.

D₂chromophores — geometric distortion in trigonal-dihedral transition metal chromophores and its relevance to optical circular dichroism. (Ph.D.)

CARSON, PETER JOHN, B.Sc.

Mutual diffusion of binary gas mixtures. (Ph.D.)

FOWLESS, ALAN DAVID, B.Sc.

A preparative and kinetic study of selenite substances with aquo transition metal complexes. (Ph.D.)

LOUGH, ROGER MALCOLM, B.Sc.

Kinetics of the reactions of triethylaluminium with polyunsaturated hydrocarbons. (Ph.D.)

NICHOL, LAWRENCE WALTER, Ph.D.

Studies on interacting systems. (D.Sc.)

NORMAN, TREVOR RONALD, B.Sc.

The reaction of aquoamine ruthenium (II) species with nitrous oxide and azide ion. (Ph.D.)

THORNTON, ANDREW THOMAS, B.Sc.

Redox reactions of halogen radical anions with transition metal cations. (Ph.D.)

URWIN, JOHN ROBSON, Ph.D.

Block copolymers. (D.Sc.)

VANDERHOEK, NAFTY, B.Sc.

The effect of high pressure on substitution reactions and chemical equilibria. (Ph.D.)

WEST, ROBERT JOHN, B.Sc.

A study of solvent exchange processes by magnetic resonance techniques. (Ph.D.)

Physics

BÖHM, ROBERT ROMAN, B.Sc.

Experimental electron scattering from atomic and molecular hydrogen, helium, neon, argon and krypton. (Ph.D.)

HOLMES, NIGEL ERIC, B.Sc.

The ultrasonic image-forming system for ionospheric studies. (Ph.D.)

LIDDIARD, KEVIN CHARLES, B.Sc.

Infrared absorption in thin metallic films. (M.Sc.)

O'BRIEN, RICHARD SEARCY, B.Sc.

Astronomical, atmospheric and laboratory studies related to lunar ultraviolet radiation. (Ph.D.)

O'CONNOR, GRAHAM GEOFFREY, B.Sc.

Ultraviolet aurora and airglow. (Ph.D.)

Zoology

WELLS, RODERICK TUCKER, B.Sc.

Physiological and behavioural adaptations of the hairy-nosed wombat (Lasiorchinus latifrons Owen) to its arid environment. (Ph.D.)

W. MEIKLEJOHN, Bursar.

We report that we have audited the various Books of Account and other records relating to the Income and Expenditure of The University of Adelaide in respect of the year which ended 31 December 1974, and we certify the above statement to be a correct abstract of such Income and Expenditure during the above period.

We further certify that in terms of sections 3 and 7 of the States Grants (Universities) Act 1972-1974 and subsequent amendments, in relation to the year 1974 the above financial statement correctly sets out the Commonwealth Grants received by the University of Adelaide, that the Commonwealth Grant for recurrent purposes paid to the University in that year has been applied for expenditure (other than for the purposes of land, buildings and equipment expenditure as defined in the Act) on University purposes and that the Commonwealth grant of $238,334 has been applied for expenditure on special research purposes.

The University of Adelaide.

W. MEIKLEJOHN,
Bursar.

We report that we have audited the above statement of Income and Expenditure of the Separate Accounts of The University of Adelaide for the year which ended 31 December 1974, and certify this statement to be a correct abstract of Income and Expenditure during this period.

COMMEMORATION ADDRESSES, 1975

There were four ceremonies for the conferring of degrees: on Wednesday, 30 April at 11.00 a.m. and 3.00 p.m. and on Wednesday, 7 May at 11.00 a.m. and 3.00 p.m.

The Visitor to the University, His Excellency Emeritus Professor Sir Mark Oliphant and Lady Oliphant were present at the morning ceremony on 30 April, 1975. His Excellency was welcomed by the Chancellor.

The Chairman of the Finance Committee, Mr. Justice Jacobs, then addressed the congregation as follows:

Your Excellency, Mr. Chancellor, Mr. Vice-Chancellor, Members of the Council and Senate of the University of Adelaide, ladies and gentlemen.

When this convocation is addressed neither by the Chancellor nor the Deputy Chancellor, nor by the Vice-Chancellor or one of his deputies, if he has any, it has been the usual but not invariable practice to invite as a speaker some other person of academic distinction.

It is therefore not surprising that the task in recent years has not fallen to the lot of the Chairman of the Finance Committee—and let me hasten to add that he now makes no claim to academic distinction. Far from that, he sometimes sees himself as the Aunt Sally of the Council, while others, quite mistakenly, see him as one with hidden power and influence, a Svengali lurking in the wings. Neither image is correct. Nevertheless, the only prior occasion on which I have spoken from this stage was thirty years ago, when in the final of the Inter-iversity debates, between the University of Adelaide and the University of Sydney, we unsuccessfully denied the proposition “That all is lost”. You, Mr. Chancellor, were one of the adjudicators. It was the first, but not the last occasion, when you declined to accept my arguments, but for once you declined also to share the enlightened minority view of one of your two colleagues. Well, Mr. Chancellor, if your decision then was correct, we must have presented a good case very badly, for if the gloomy forecasts of the prophets of doom from the East had come true, we would not now be gathered here today. That such a topic, that all is lost, should be considered debatable at all causes me to reflect upon what sometimes seems to me to be one of the most regrettable evils among the many so-called evils of our time, the evil of mass pessimism. We become so involved in, sometimes so depressed, by current problems that we allow the elusiveness of their solution to obscure the past, and cast dark shadows on the future. It is a sickness from which the University itself suffers, no less than the society in which it lives—indeed perhaps, we suffer more, if we are sensitive to the criticism, albeit sometimes ill-informed, that the universities do not measure up to public expectation.

I know of no ready-made cure for the sickness of undue pessimism, but it is sometimes useful, if not always easy, to try to stand back from contemporary events, to ask ourselves whether what we have done, and what we are doing is good or bad, and even if good, whether it might not be better. It may surprise some of you to know, as indeed it surprises me, that with one notable exception in the person of Dr. Melville, Director Emeritus of the Waite Institute, I have been on the council for longer than any other present member, although it is a mere thirteen years. Some of my predecessors would have regarded such a term as no more than an apprenticeship, but the rate of change was less in those days. Among all the changes that have occurred in little more than a decade, I would for present purposes, single out three—the emergence and development of the Australian Universities Commission, the establishment of what was at first the University of Adelaide at Bedford Park and is now the Flinders University of South Australia, and the establishment within this University of a wider and more representative base for university government, with a greater involvement for sub-professorial members of the academic staff and undergraduates.

In 1961, we were in the middle of the first triennium of the Australian Universities Commission. It brought with it a revolution in university finance and development and I think few would be heard to deny that its credits far outweigh its debits. We have come to expect Government approval for its recommendations, and an assured provision of funds. The need for triennial planning places some restraint on the rate of change and growth, and the advent of the Commission, beyond establishing guidelines, has not solved the problems of allocation of resources within the University, but neither should it, if the University is to retain some autonomy and individuality. Despite triennial planning University budgets are prepared from year to year. In an era of rapid but fluctuating monetary inflation, comparisons become difficult, but it is instructive to stand back and take a look at what has happened over a ten year period, and what is happening now. I think you will then find that in real money terms, we now allocate no more of our budget and probably less, to library services and research than we did ten years ago, but in that time the over-all staff-student ratio has improved from 1 to 13 to 1 to 11, involving a very substantial increase in the proportionate allocation of resources in that area. Despite the fact that almost 98% of our recurrent annual expenditure is met from public funds, however, some of what comes out of the Federal Government's large pocket finds its way back into the State Government's small purse, for we now pay more than 1.1 million dollars in pay-roll tax, much more than twice the amount we spend on library books and material. Incidentally, it is approaching ten times as much as we paid in 1965—the increase is 850% reflecting not merely increased academic and administrative staff numbers and higher salaries, but double the rate of tax as well. Perhaps that helps to explain also why financial provision for study leave, which is essential to the academic health of the University, has failed to keep pace with inflation and the increase in academic staff numbers. Yet paradoxically we are now required by law to make provision for long service leave for the academic staff, involving funds which many of the beneficiaries themselves believe could be spent more wisely, for example in more generous study leave assistance. Despite all this our proportionate expenditure on administrative salaries remains lower than almost any other university in Australia. Indeed it may be worth observing that, excluding the Australian National University, all the older universities in Australia (with one exception) spend a significantly lower proportion of their funds on administration than the newer universities. It may be that our age has made us more conservative in our administrative structure and procedures than we ought to be. Indeed, I have long thought that we might well take a leaf out of the Australian Universities Commission's book and while recognising the need for central planning and supervision, encourage more decentralisation in decision-making and expenditure, thereby allowing faculties and departments greater latitude in initiating and reacting to change, according to their specific but different needs.

I need not dwell long on the establishment of the Flinders University, momentous as it was. It at once set a limit upon the growth and the rate of development of this University, and was the forerunner of a new diversity in tertiary education, a diversity which has since been markedly increased by the establishment of Colleges of Advanced Education. Again, those changes have brought problems—the bugbear of quotas within the University of Adelaide, and selection within quotas, with the so-called matriculation examination now a maid of all work attempting to serve many different masters. Solutions to these problems involve an enormous expenditure of academic and administrative time and energy, but again few would be heard to say that we are paying too high a price for these new developments.

What then of the changes that have occurred in University government? The process of decision-making within a University sometimes seems to be arduous and time-consuming in the extreme. Nor can we draw much comfort from the experience of a large American corporation in which the proportionate overhead expenses of its subsidiary in Europe were very much less than those of the parent company, but the reason was not hard to discover—the chief executive in Europe was making decisions in Europe which in America would only be taken by a committee of ten vice-presidents. Nevertheless if the University is to remain a self-governing community of scholars, then prima facie that must mean all scholars. The ever present danger is that we become too pre-occupied with government at the expense of scholarship. Many of the tasks of University government, as indeed of any government, require special skills, knowledge, and experience for which, in the words of Thomas Carlyle, the collective wisdom of individual ignorance is no substitute. I do not share the view of the cynic who said that a committee is a group of the unprepared appointed by the unwilling to do the unnecessary. I do not believe the University should sacrifice the principle of corporate decision-making on the altar of expedition, but I do believe that there is room for a wider delegation of responsibility.

Mr. Chancellor, in an attempt to be a good composer, I announced my main theme at the beginning, but there is a second theme in what I have said. The major significant changes to which I have referred, like stones thrown into the pond, bring many ripples. We must not expect the water to be smooth. But a University must have the capacity not merely to react to change to ride out the waves—it must have the ability and the wisdom to initiate change. To use an ugly 'in-word', our search is for flexibility, both academic and administrative. I am happy to notice that we have not wholly failed.

Today one of the candidates for the degree of M.Sc. is Mr.

Michael Tyler. He is a Laboratory Manager in the Department of Human Physiology. He does not at present hold a degree in this or any other University. He was accepted by the Faculty of Science for a Master's Degree on the strength of his extensive personal research in a particular field—I understand it has something to do with frogs. He has been a member of the Ancillary Staff since 1959, and not only is he the first member of the ancillary staff to receive a degree at this level, but the award of a higher degree in these circumstances is, I believe, without precedent. Tyler's success is a credit to him, but it is a credit also to the University.

There is that word credit again, a word which echoes the opening theme. For when one adds up the balance of account, much of what we have, and much of what we have done, is good. We should therefore look to the future not with pessimism, but with confidence, and in doing so perhaps set a much needed example to the community we serve.

At the afternoon ceremony on 30 April, 1975, the Chairman of the Education Committee, Professor C. A. Hurst, addressed the congregation as follows:

Mr. Chancellor, Mr. Vice-Chancellor, Members of the Council and Senate, ladies and gentlemen.

It is my pleasure to welcome all of you to this afternoon's Commemoration, and in particular to offer my warm congratulations to the graduates who today will receive formal recognition that they have completed another stage of their education. Even though approximately 1,600 graduates will be receiving their degrees at this year's ceremonies, yet every one of them will be congratulated personally by the presiding Chancellor or Deputy-Chancellor. In this way the University emphasises publicly its confidence that each graduate is worthy to bear the reputation of the University wherever his or her future may lead. We are rightly proud of the honour brought us by those men and women who have gone on from Adelaide to become leaders in their various fields, but we are also aware that our reputation depends greatly on the quality of the 24,000 holders of degrees conferred by this University since its foundation over 100 years ago. On each of you therefore rests in part the reputation of the University that has been your academic home these past few years, and I know that you will support it with credit.

The main body of my address to you today concerns a theme which was referred to by Lord Todd in his centenary oration last year, and I make no apology for returning to it because it is the central problem which faces mankind today. It is the problem of how to adjust to living with what has come to be called "non-growth". Both this University, on a small scale, and the world at large must eventually learn how to do this.

This word "non-growth" doesn't sound very attractive nor is its meaning regarded very favourably because it carries with it overtones of stagnation and of resistance to change. But I think it need not mean that and possibly it would be better expressed by talking about "equilibrium" or by using that more hopeful phrase of Ralf Dahren-dorf, the 1974 Reith lecturer: "improvement without expansion". I do not wish to imply that this situation is upon us right now, but this is the trend which is clearly evident. The sooner we start thinking about what should be done about it, therefore, the better. So I shall begin by saying something about how this University is trying to make the transition.

Since its foundation this University has been growing steadily at a rate which approximately corresponds to doubling its population every ten years—with the exception of the depression and war years. It is typical of such exponential growth that this rate of change causes little concern till it is almost too late. For us the pressure came on quite suddenly in the 1950's and 1960's. It became evident then that something would have to be done and so the growth in numbers was restricted by the imposition of a quota system. The reasons for this were twofold: first of all the site was too small to permit much more in the way of new building, and second a university of more than 10,000 students is becoming too large to function well.

You have all been conscious of the rapid transformation produced by the construction of our many large new buildings. The effect has been to alter the appearance of the University so greatly that older graduates have difficulty in finding their way around within the area they used to know so well. Indeed all of us must be grateful for the site plans now distributed around the campus. Some more building is planned for the next triennium, but it is clear that further major extensions should not be made. Otherwise the university will degenerate into a maze of concrete canyons. In the future, building should be confined mainly to the improvement of what we have rather than to expansion. Obviously some of the buildings here will have to be examined carefully in order to assess their suitability for what they are used for because many of them are nearly 50 years old and some are even older. One factor that will need to be taken into account will be that if there is to be no expansion in buildings, or in the numbers of staff and students, any changes that will occur—and this must be permitted if there is not to be stagnation—will be balanced ones. Increases in one sector will be matched by decreases in others, and so any reconstructions that are necessary will have to be done so as to permit as much flexibility in their use as possible and further major upheavals must be avoided.

There have been associated with this building development great expansions in the range of subjects taught and in the size of the traditional departments. These have brought new forms of organisation to cope with the much greater complexity of the University, which is now as big as a town of moderate size. In order to ensure that all can feel that they can play a useful role in this large institution, many changes have been necessary. For example, the University Act has been changed, departmental government has been instituted, memberships of committees and faculties have been widened to include students and junior, as well as senior, staff and new services like student counselling and an educational centre have been established. These changes have been made in response to the challenge of growth and now it is time to assess them for the future. We must find the best way to run this University so that it can respond rapidly and efficiently to the changing demands that will be made on it in the future without merely producing more expansion. Some future growth is still needed in various parts—there exists an urgent need to relieve the sorely pressed administration—but such responses must be limited. The present structure has attempted to combine the need to make decisions in a complicated environment whilst permitting the maximum of consultation and participation, and to some extent this has been at the cost of the time of many persons, who are better at doing what they are appointed for, namely, to profess their disciplines. Reorganisation for improvement rather than for expansion should be the guiding principle.

On the academic side, what can be done to increase the breadth and depth of courses offered without continuing to expand the size of the staff? I can give two examples of ways in which the University already has been able to offer a greater breadth and variety without significant expansion.

By the extension of the range of departments, much more flexible arrangements of courses are now possible. The introduction of unit courses has enabled new subjects to be created which spread outside departmental and even faculty bounds. As a result graduates may obtain a much wider variety of qualifications by blending portions of several subjects together. In this way many new and interesting things have been done, and there is scope for further development here.

Another way in which new combinations of existing disciplines can be formed is to work on a larger scale than with unit courses. By combining subjects from different departments and faculties with a common object in mind, new courses in Environmental Studies, Asian Studies, Human Sciences and Performing Arts have been instituted or proposed. Such courses make use of the expertise already available with the addition only of a coordinator and possibly of a small number of new staff. This makes possible courses of a breadth which could not be realised in a single department and so are ideally suited for the study of many matters of pressing social concern and relevance. By this means the breadth needed to grasp the full import of the problems studied can be combined with the depth needed to tackle them realistically. By such new forms of academic organisation we are able to improve what we are doing without needing great expansion, and we should continue to make use of this approach.

In order to increase depth, it is necessary that the traditional subjects themselves should be in a state of constant repair in order to keep them up to date. As new knowledge is acquired courses right down to first year should be restructured. It is not possible to incorporate new material merely by increasing the years needed to finish a degree; otherwise students wouldn't be graduating till they were too old. New knowledge can be introduced only by leaving out some of the material being taught, and this can be done without serious loss only if the new knowledge encompasses what was known before. The new perspectives which advances in knowledge provide enable the older knowledge to be included as part of the greater understanding that is gained. This means that close contact must be maintained with new developments and this can be done only if there is an active research programme running in all departments. This is one of a number of important reasons why a university must continue to foster research; without research, courses become traditional and hide-bound, and there is no improvement without expansion.

All that I have said about the problems of providing new ways of academic development can be summed up in the words of the editor of the magazine "Search": "the education system must provide us with the best of both worlds—the production of scholars in the best tradition of western society and the education of both scholars and others in such a way that they have broad perspectives, social understanding and concern with mankind's problems".

All this is about the life which many of you are leaving and, although we hope that you will maintain interest and contact with this University for the rest of your lives, most of the problems facing you will be in the world outside. And here again one of the central issues is the problem of growth and what should replace it if it cannot be maintained indefinitely.

The world has shrunk tremendously in the last decade or so and it is clear that if we are to survive we must find a way to get into equilibrium with our environment. Equilibrium for me means that although the total population does not increase or technology keep on expanding, change is still possible. People can move about freely so that some centres expand and others contract and whilst some forms of technology decline, others advance. What is gained in one place is lost in another. This is a view which is foreign to our present social structure, and it will take a long time for the new ways to be accepted. There is not very much time to do this when measured in terms of history so that a large responsibility is placed on those with the capacity to appreciate its importance.

You who graduate today and those who will graduate in the future have just such capacities, for you have been equipped with the qualifications appropriate to meet these difficulties. The scientists have the training to help in controlling the new technologies and to teach others about them; the architects and planners the means to assist in providing new ways of living appropriate to the new world view; and the lawyers have the means to provide the social machinery to bring it about.

This is how your specific training fits you for these challenges. More important though will be how those wider qualities, which a university education tries to promote, will fit you for these tasks. Whatever your particular degree, you will have absorbed as an inevitable accompaniment to the whole process of education these attitudes of thought and means of communication which encourage originality, humility, tolerance and patience. These will be essential if the truth is to be found amongst all the conflicting remedies suggested. You have learnt that the truth is not the exclusive property of acknowledged experts, and that intellectual arrogance is to be avoided. You will have learnt that new ideas must be considered with an open mind and criticised with rigour and fairness before they are accepted. You know that even long accepted ideas may be deficient and should be replaced by new ones wherever necessary.

Quoting Ralf Dahrendorf again, you know that:

"Liberty remains a response to the fact that we live in a world of uncertainty in which nobody can claim to have found the goal of ultimate wisdom."

Once again may I congratulate you on your achievements and wish you success for the future.

At the morning ceremony on 7 May, 1975, the Deputy Chancellor, Justice Roma F. Mitchell, addressed the congregation as follows:

Mr. Vice-Chancellor, members of the Council and Senate of the University of Adelaide, ladies and gentlemen.

When I was a law student at this university in the first half of the 1930s, our studies in constitutional law led us to a consideration of the supreme power of the legislature and to discussions whether such power was in any way limited by what is called natural or moral law. As an illustration of the restriction upon the exercise of absolute power by the legislative arm of government we were offered this statement made by Leslie Stephen in his Science of Ethics (p. 143):—

“If a legislature decided that all blue-eyed babies should be murdered, the preservation of blue-eyed babies would be illegal; but legislators must go mad before they could pass such a law, and subjects be idiotic before they could submit to it.”

The fact that the law-maker would hesitate long to enact a law which would blatantly affront the consciences of all reasoning citizens seemed to us to be beyond dispute. Nevertheless at about the same time in Nazi Germany a dictator, whom posterity has declared to have been mad, was planning and later was effectuating the extermination of human beings, not, it is true, because they had blue eyes, but because he believed that the blood in their veins was of inferior quality; and the people whom he ruled submitted to his unjust and immoral laws because he had his gestapo and other instruments of force and persuasion. Never again would my generation believe that, even in this century, the fact that a law was unjust or immoral would lead inevitably in all places to repeal or disuse.

Since then we have observed, in a number of countries throughout the world, the enactment and enforcement of laws which are oppressive of ethnic or minority groups and which, in some instances, appear to have genocide as their object. We may well be powerless to change such laws. In any event our role in the amelioration of the harshness or inequality of the laws of other countries is one which requires considerably longer time to discuss than would be appropriate to occupy with an address on this occasion.

The question which I do wish to raise is that of the involvement of members of the University, including to-day's graduands, in law reform in this country. In Australia I believe that the “blue-eyed babies” are safe, but the public conscience is not so easily interpreted in relation to all matters which may be the subject of legislation. The statute law is not, nor should it be, in the vanguard of law reform. The interests of all whom a new law will affect must have due consideration, and the advantages must be weighed against the disadvantages of the proposed reform. In the case of some reforms time is needed to enable the public to become accustomed to the idea which generated the new law. On the other hand the legislators should not always be occupied in a rear-guard action to protect the status quo. Law reform is not something which, having been achieved, will endure indefinitely. Among lawyers the 19th century was acclaimed as the great era of law reform, but most lawyers would agree that some of the reforms of that century are now themselves in need of reform. A great deal of time and effort is being given by lawyers in this community, including judges, academics and members of the practising profession, to the consideration of law reform; and it is not only the lawyers who are working upon matters of law reform, which is properly an inter-disciplinary task. A major part has been played by academics from various faculties of this university in the planning of innovative legislation designed to improve the lot of the ordinary citizen. I need instance only the work done in the field of consumer protection and of environment, some of which has already born legislative fruit.

I would acknowledge also the ready assistance from academics and from students of this University which the Criminal Law and Penal Methods Reform Committee of which I am Chairman has received, whenever it has been sought.

The processes of law reform by orthodox means are, however, necessarily slow and often slower than they need be. Those who hold a passionate belief that a law or a rule should be changed are sometimes unwilling to wait until all the implications of the proposed change have been measured. Further they despair of convincing those who are charged with the function of amending the law of the justice of their cause merely by the presentation of logical arguments. They decide that only direct action will jolt the public conscience. In the case of university students and others this has led to demonstrations and to what Mr. Broderick, in a commemoration address last year, characterised as the "protest movement". Of course there is nothing novel about drawing attention to injustices in the law by protest followed by civil disobedience. The Suffragettes developed it into a political weapon, particularly during the years 1905-1914; and who, in International Women's Year, would dare to deny that they had a just cause, or to affirm that their breaches of the law did not eventually play a part in winning the franchise for women? The Suffragettes realised, very painfully at times, that a penalty would be, as it was, exacted for their acts of protest, and they did not complain about this. Their complaints related only to the deafness of those who could not hear the cry of Votes for Women.

There are those who would annihilate our present system of law but have nothing to substitute for it. As a lawyer devoted to the rule of law I feel no empathy with them. I can understand those who feel strongly that a particular law is unjust and who commit a breach of that or some other law in order to draw attention to its injustice. But I believe that they, like the Suffragettes, should be ready to pay whatever penalty the law exacts for such disobedience.

I should like to think that we were moving away from the need for drastic action to draw attention to those matters in the law which require amendment, and that reasoned discussion might be an appropriate substitution for demonstrations. Universities are places in which such discussions are perennial. It is to the advantage of the community that those who, as undergraduates, participate in such debates and who have constructive suggestions to offer, will not lose interest in reform when they forsake the forum of the university. Some of you graduands will remain at this university for further studies or to take appointments. Some will move to other universities. Others will enter other educational communities or professions or commerce. Wherever you are, your life will be affected by the laws of this country, and you will doubtless have views as to amendments which would benefit the life of the community. I urge you to remember that the laws of this State are your laws. You, as electors, are responsible for them. Your ideas for their improvement should be available not only to the legislators but also to those who, as members of committees or other bodies, undertake the responsibility of preparing measures of law reform. Many of you would be valuable members of such committees.

I mentioned my Criminal Law and Penal Methods Reform Committee. When the committee was considering changes in penal methods it received constructive suggestions from a group of students who, having taken part in demonstrations, had come into conflict with the law. They had experienced problems which are usually faced by a less analytical and less fluent section of the community, and they shared with the committee their insight into difficulties which we viewed only from the outside.

At present we are considering whether there should be changes in the substantive criminal law. I am sure that many people including students, graduands, their parents and other members of their families have views as to what should be the purview of the criminal law, to what extent it should regulate the behaviour of the citizen, whether it should be concerned only with conduct which affects other people or whether it should proscribe behaviour which the majority of citizens regard as morally wrong or for some other reason undesirable. Those students who call upon the news media to proclaim that they are openly smoking marihuana make their point that the smoking of marihuana should not be illegal. At present it is. If they smoke it they must be prepared to face penalties. They may think that to do so is to suffer in a good cause. Be that as it may, they should also supply reasoned arguments in favour of their views to committees such as mine which may be more fitted dispassionately to consider them than is the ordinary member of the public who watches television or reads newspaper reports of such activities.

Ladies and gentlemen you may think that what I have said has little relevance to this Commemoration ceremony or indeed to this University. But the problems of the community are the problems of the University. A year ago Professor Noel Flentje, then Deputy Vice-Chancellor, whose untimely death on 25th May last the whole University has mourned and will continue to mourn, gave the address at one of the Commemoration ceremonies. He referred to the graduands as people of high intellectual ability, and said:— "In that sense you are privileged, but you have a corresponding responsibility to exercise your abilities in helping other people." The same could be said equally of you who graduate to-day. I have simply pointed to one way in which you may use your intellectual capacity and your training for the benefit of the community.

I congratulate all those who graduate to-day and wish you success and happiness in your chosen careers.

At the afternoon ceremony on 7 May, 1975, the Vice-Chancellor, Professor G. M. Badger, addressed the congregation as follows:

Deputy Chancellor, Mr. Warden, Members of the Council and Senate of the University, graduands, families and friends of graduands, ladies and gentlemen.

I should like to begin my Address this afternoon by extending a warm welcome to the families and friends of those who, in a few minutes, will receive their degrees. I do this most sincerely. Graduation is a good reason for family joy and this ceremony gives us all a chance, collectively, to join this family occasion.

The graduands today represent four Faculties: Agricultural Science, Arts, Economics and Medicine. I congratulate you all on the successful completion of the work for your degrees and I wish you every success in your future endeavours. Some of you have come to Adelaide from overseas countries. Let me say that those of us who live in Adelaide have greatly valued your presence here and the contributions which you have made to our community. We all hope that when you do return to your homes it will be with pleasant memories of your time at the University.

Students enrol at the University for many different reasons and as a famous American educator, Dr. Clark Kerr, once said: "The University is so many things to so many different people that it must, of necessity, be partially at war with itself." However, there are two reasons for enrolment which seem to be most important to students: first, a desire for knowledge for its own sake without reference to future employment possibilities; and secondly a wish to obtain the vocational education and training necessary for entry to one of the professions. These two reasons, the pursuit of knowledge and understanding, and the acquisition of skills which can be used for social needs, have long been recognised. With some students the first reason is paramount and with others the second is the main motivating force. If the University is to achieve its educational aims, however, specialised studies in pursuit of knowledge for its own sake, and the attainment of professional skills, must both be encouraged against "a background in which the student is constantly reminded that his own specialised studies occupy only a small sector of man's search for truth". (N. S. Marsh, 1953.)

The medieval universities were based on a guild form of organisation with the three stages of apprenticeship, journeymanhood and mastership; and this model had a powerful influence on their future structure. There were three Faculties: Theology, Law and Medicine. In those days the decision about when and what to teach was not difficult and, once made, required little alteration. The academic terms were arranged to coincide with the most important seasons of the agricultural year. The courses included subjects which were recognised to combine intellectual appeal with considerable social merit. The curriculum evolved slowly and was not suddenly affected by technological change, or even by sudden changes in society. The student who had mastered his subject could therefore be confident of its continuing utility throughout his life, and he had little or no conflict with society.

There were many changes in society over the years but the universities were slow to change; by the end of the eighteenth century they had become centres of reaction, and their courses were rigid. It was time for reform and for a reassessment of the relationship of the universities with society. Different problems developed in different countries and in the nineteenth century the British universities concentrated on giving students a liberal education; the German universities gave increasing attention to research and advanced scholarship; and the American universities emphasised service to the community. All these qualities are to be found in most universities today and—to quote Clark Kerr again—“A university anywhere can aim no higher than to be as British as possible for the sake of the undergraduates, as German as possible for the sake of the graduates and the research personnel, as American as possible for the sake of the public at large—and as confused as possible for the sake of the preservation of the whole uneasy balance.”

Technological innovation in the twentieth century induced enormous changes in society, and these changes have been so great that some now argue that a separation in function between the university and the workings of society at large is necessary if academic and scholarly work is to remain immune to financial and political interests. They hope that universities will remain unchanged by society and isolated and secluded from the world.

On the other hand, others argue that society has developed a complex and diffuse structure from which no one can remain immune, and that as changes occur in society, evolutionary changes in universities should inevitably follow. In other words, universities cannot be like the dinosaur which, as you will recall, became extinct because as he grew larger and larger, he sacrificed his evolutionary flexibility to meet changing conditions. I should add that the dinosaur had one other problem: his body became too large for his brain.

The changes which have occurred in society since the Second World War have been particularly great. Many have been the result of what may be called the Scientific and Technological Revolution. The present Technological World has increased food production and increased our material welfare; but it has not necessarily increased human happiness. Many people feel that the technological world has had a dehumanising effect on society and that man has now lost his idealism in the endless pursuit for material ends. Students, being idealistic, have reacted against this material world “because the only way to persuade oneself that the situation is not wholly hopeless is to do something” (J. Hersey, 1970), that is to be active and not acquiescent. This has led to some changes in the universities and indeed in world-thinking about many problems. Nevertheless the problem—how to live in a technological world?—remains, and we all need to give increased thought and attention to it.

I should like to refer to one particularly intractable problem: the population explosion. In the last fifty years or so the effects of the population explosion on society have been enormous. In addition, we have seen an increase in affluence, particularly in western countries. These two influences have had a profound effect on universities all over the world; they have become much larger, and their organisation has become increasingly complex. It is not easy to see how this could have been avoided. After all, the number of university students in the world is now almost the same as the total number of secondary students only twenty-five or so years ago; and there is no sign that this rate of increase will diminish significantly. In this connection it is worth remembering that the total population of the world is expected to double by the year 2010; and, in the present British Commonwealth countries, the number of people under 25 is expected to double by the turn of the century.

The disadvantages of large organisations, which universities are being forced to become, are fairly obvious. They tend to become impersonal; and the increased complexity leads to an alienation of the diverse elements within them. Very large universities have sometimes been described as a series of departments held together only by the central heating system and a common grievance on parking. The University, with its single community of scholars and masters, has given way to the Multiversity, with a multitude of separate communities each pursuing scholarly studies in isolation from the rest. A decentralised departmental system helps to overcome alienation because it serves to localise decision-making and affords staff and students some degree of personal say in the affairs of the University. A strong departmental system has its disadvantages, however, not the least of which is the discouragement which this affords to interdisciplinary work.

Another important disadvantage of increased size and increased complexity of organisation is that one gets so immersed in the day to day problems that there is a tendency to lose sight of the primary educational aims of the University. After all, if you are in the water, and surrounded by alligators, it is difficult to remember that your primary purpose was to drain the swamp. The educational aims must however be paramount and we do need to keep our attention firmly directed towards our objectives so that the University can fulfil its creative role in society and can stand in detached critical relation to it. This means that universities must not be allowed to lose their evolutionary flexibility by becoming too large. In this University, therefore, faculty quotas have been established which will ensure that the total student-population remains roughly constant at about the present level.

It must be remembered, however, that education involves both a teaching and learning process and that students contribute as much to education as the teachers. A good teacher stimulates the appetite for learning and I think that most graduates remember some of their teachers with admiration and affection. I certainly do.

Many of you will now be leaving the University and will be using the knowledge and understanding you have gained for your work in society; but the specialised knowledge you have acquired will not be enough. No one who graduates today can be confident that his present knowledge and understanding will suffice for the world as it will be in twenty-five years time. It may be that you will often be surrounded by immediate problems, but I hope that you will not allow your appetite for education, and for the learning process, to diminish, and that your future careers will bring you personal satisfaction and benefit to mankind.

THE SENATE

Until 29 April, 1971 the Senate of the University consisted of all graduates admitted to a degree of Master or Doctor and of all other graduates of the University of three years' standing. A graduate of another University admitted to a degree in The University of Adelaide reckoned his standing from the date of his graduation in such other University.

On 29 April, 1971 a new act, "The University of Adelaide Act, 1971" came into force. Under it, the Senate consists of all graduates of the University; all persons in the full-time employment of the University who are graduates of other Universities recognised by the University or who have attained at other institutions of higher learning qualifications considered by the University to be of a status equivalent to that of a degree of the University; and all postgraduate students.

PAST AND PRESENT GRADUATES

His Royal Highness George Frederick Ernest Albert, Duke of Cornwall and York (His late Majesty King George V.), LL.D. (Cambridge, 1894)	1901
His Royal Highness Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales (afterwards His Majesty King Edward VIII.), LL.D. (D.C.L. Oxford, 1919)	1920
His Royal Highness Albert Frederick Arthur George, Duke of York (His late Majesty King George VI.), LL.D. (Cambridge, 1922)	1927
His Royal Highness Henry William Frederick Albert Duke of Gloucester, LL.D. (Cambridge, 1934)	1935
His Royal Highness The Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, D.Sc. (Delhi, 1959; Reading, 1960; Salford and Southampton, 1967)	1974

This list was revised in 1931, in 1941, in 1951, in 1961 and in 1971 by the omission of deceased graduates; it will be similarly revised in 1981. For former lists see Calendars for 1930, 1940, 1950, 1960 and 1970.
