Dear Buchanan Smith:

I am glad to hear of what you are doing on the milk problem, but I am afraid I cannot be very helpful, as owing to a bad eye I am cutting down work to a minimum.

I have just had a letter from D'Arcy Thompson, suggesting I should take a zoo-mathematical sort of girl to work here for a time and if so, one of the jobs she might care to take up, would be to see what further work could profitably be put into the kind of material you have.

Let me know if this kind of arrangement would suit you and I will write later if anything is arranged.

Yours sincerely,
