Dear Dr. Fisher,

We have had submitted to us, with some commendations, a book partly mathematical, partly biological, bearing on the problems of animal population by A.J. Nicholson and V.A. Bailey. The biologists pure think it important, but cannot estimate the mathematics. As the statistical method is your very special interest, I wondered whether you would be so good as to look at the MS. for us and give us an opinion of its soundness and usefulness? If you would be so kind, I should like to send it along.

Yours sincerely,

Kenneth Siam
