

28th. January, 1943.

My dear Henry,

I should like to thank you so much for the most enjoyable weekend you gave me in Oxford. Apart even from the hospital it was really very fortunate for me to fall in with Beveridge again.

On looking the thing up I find that the train for you to catch to St. Albans on Saturday runs at 2 O'clock, and is due at St. Albans at 2.50. If I am not there to meet you on the station I will be at the White Hart.

I am so glad to hear about the Entomological, and that they have chosen you as Vice President. It is an honour which I am sure you very much deserve.

Yours sincerely,
