Dear Professor Gini,

Many thanks for your letter of February the 1st. I often see "Scientia", but I should be glad also to have a separate review of your article.

It will be the greatest pleasure to see you in April if you find it possible to come.

I hope to be at the meetings, though I shall not otherwise be taking an active part. I am not very sure of the purpose of the Committees of the Institute, of which we are both members, but it will at least be useful to exchange views on subjects within our terms of reference.

Yours sincerely,
