

10th October 1933.

Dear Haldane,

I want to invite you, and the members of your department, who are attending my lectures on Mondays and Wednesdays to drop in to the Staff tea in the common room on the same floor at 4-30, before the lecture.

I hope this may give us a chance to talk over points of common interest as they occur to us from time to time. Will you notify your people about this and let me know when you are lecturing yourself.

Yours sincerely,
