

April 2, 1940

Dear Haldane,

I have a permit for sending offprints to Neutral countries, which requires, however, that I obtain the material direct from the publisher, and not through the hands even of the author.

This I can manage in the case of Annals offprints, as I always have a few in the laboratory which could be replaced by what you send me. In the case of the Journal of Genetics, if you could manage to have the journals or offprints sent direct from the press, I think there will be no difficulty if you send the addresses to which they ought to go.

I hope you are still holding the fort.

Yours sincerely,