

28th February 1934.

Professor K. Pearson,
Department of Zoology,
University College,
W.C.1.

Dear Professor Pearson,

I am very much obliged for your note on the net cost of the Annals. The position seems to be very serious, since I understand that apart from starting with some capital sufficient to meet existing obligations, the College can only offer £200 a year to meet the cost both of the Annals and of the Treasury. I will, however, take the matter up further with the Provost and the Secretary.

Yours sincerely,